Horse Killed by Lightning.

The lightning on Wednesday morning was so severe in Ernestown Township that a horse owned by J. C. Parrott, who resides on the Provincial Highway, about two miles from Odessa, was instantly killed while standing in the stable. About three o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Parrott were awakened from their slumbers by the heavy storm. Upon looking out of the bedroom window, Mrs. Parrott saw a reflection in the drive shed. As she ran to the shed and found that two umbrellas which had been hanging on pegs there were ablaze. With a couple of pails of water the fire in the drive shed was extinguished. Upon going into the stable, about forty feet away, it was found that one of the horses had been killed by the flash, by Mrs. Parrott. When making an investigation later it was found that the lightning had gone down a post that

CANADIAN VOLUNTEERS

Hurrah for the Canadian volunteers
From the land of the Maple Leaf.
When orders came to shoulder arms,
Midst Mother's pain and grief
She said, "My boy, remember,
My prayers will follow you,
And if on earth we never meet,
To God and King be true".

The youthful Sons of Canada,
Some a beard had never grown,
Blow out of youth still on their cheek,
But loyal to the Throne.
Stalwart Sons of the North land
Stood proudly neath the flag,
Their motto was to do and die,
Let shrinkers boast and brag.

When that appeal for aid was wafted
From the shores of the Motherland,
Two hundred thousand volunteers
They left their native land;
And with shoulder touching shoulder,
Midst hissing shot and shell,
Your boy was there, he did his bit,
And was buried where he fell.

He faced the German's bullets,
Through the thickest of the fight,
He helped to take the trenches,
Neath the stars dim candle light.
For his friends at home he done it,
For his sister and his brother,
His breast was pierced by a German ball,
The last word he spoke was Mother.

They fought your fight and won it,
Fought through Belgium to the Rhine
Some bit the dust in Flanders,
And died without a whine.
Some in France are sleeping,
And they fill a hero's grave,
They're the sacrifice to duty
That Canada once gave.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The June meeting of the Napanee Branch, Women's Institute, was held in the Agricultural Class Room on Tuesday afternoon.

After making final arrangements for the District Women's Institutes picnic, to be held at the Driving Park on Wednesday, June 24th, the speaker of the afternoon was intro- duced, Miss Edith Collins, of An- caster, a delegate from the Depart- ment in Toronto.

Miss Collins' subject, "The Aims and Ideals of Women's Institutes, and Women's National Outlook," held an appeal to the large number of members present. The Women's Institutes, now with nine hundred branches, is the outgrowth of a great need to help women,—espec- ially the mothers in the home and community. During the war this Society, through its efficient organ- ization, contributed a large percent- age of Red Cross supplies. Since that time its objects are more diver- sified and are yet being developed. Courses are given in Cooking, Dressmaking, Millinery, Home Nursing, etc., which bear quick re- sults in the home. Then from lec- tures and study books a more in- timate knowledge of laws and gov- ernment is obtained, and our women —particularly our new Canadians— become better citizens with a far- reaching influence.

"BLIND LOVE"

A Fascinating Musical Comedy Presented at the Armouries, Wednesday and Thursday Nights.

Capacity Houses at Both Perform- ances to Witness the Best Play Yet Given at Napanee Under the Direc- tion of Theodore H. Bird. — One Hundred and Fifty Amateur Play- ers.

The very large audiences which were present at the Armouries on the evenings of Wednesday and Thurs- day of this week to enjoy the presen- tation of "Blind Love", a musical comedy, must be most satisfactory to the players, to "B" Company, Fron- tenac Regiment, under whose auspices it was given, and to Theo- dore H. Bird, the director; as it was to the people who witnessed a thrill- ing and charming play and no less charming music.

The stage, which was probably the largest and most commodious ever erected in the Armouries, having a frontage of forty feet, was most beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers of every hue to be found in the mysterious depths of the rain- bow. And these flowers were no more beautiful than the human ones who so aptly portrayed their parts of a drama in the Southern States of a period shortly after the Civil War, when ladies wore crinolines and pan- talets and gentlemen wore silk knee- breeches, lace jabots at their necks and lace cuffs on their sleeves.

Perhaps the prettiest scene of all was the swing scene in the third act. The effect was very artistic.

The lighting effects throughout the play were well managed and produced good results.

Children's Chorus.

Was composed of boys and girls, quite appropriately costumed, each of whom did their part very well and who were much admired for their ap- pearance, the evolutions they per- formed, and for their musical abili- ties; but they are so numerous that their full complement of their names being printed here.

Soloists.

Celestine Daly, Jean Conger, Bor- den Lewis, Benny Davy, Gilbert Sey- mour.

The interpretation of their parts by each of the amateur players was of fine standard, who compted to indulge in an exhaustive criticism, but re- straint is necessary and only brief mention can be made of the undoubt- ed histrionic ability which reflects credit alike to actors and instruct- ors.

Alma Wales, as Mary Peyton, was indeed a Southern rose, looked very sweet, and played her part to per- fection, especially during her period of blindness.

Mrs. R. Valkman as Mrs. James Peyton, a Southern aristocrat, played her somewhat difficult and disagree- able part without a flaw.

Marie Paul as Annabelle Peyton, a Virginia vamp, looked very nice and did her part well.

Margaret Nolan was inimitable as Aunt Dinah, a black mammy. She impersonates a negress so well that it is almost another insult to Ireland.

Grant Paul enacted the part of Ezekiel Morse in an excellent manner but he might have been the original.

Frank Bell, as Gen. Harry Peyton, did his part splendidly—many a man- ly breast in the audience was filled with envy when his daughter Mary embraced him.

William McLaughlin as Col. Tom Bailey, of the Southern Army, was just a bit of all right, and he made a fine old man of the good old times.

James Napkin, as Capt. Wilfred Forrest, in love with Mary, looked and played his part well and nobody begrudged him, in the last act, win- ning her for his bride.

Joe Peyton, Mary's brother, the part taken by Theodore Bird, was— (but Mr. Bird needs no praise from The Beaver) perfect, he was just all right and a little over for good mea- sures.

The opening chorus by the children, "China Girl" led by the soloists, Celestine Daly and Borden Lewis, was excellently done.

"Rose Marie" between Acts 1 and 2, was highly appreciated, as was "Rock-a-bye-Baby Days" at the open- ing of Act 2.

A very pretty specialty was given between Acts 2 and 3, "Arabianna", which won repeated applause. The soloist was Irene Garrison, prettily garbed in an Oriental costume. She was assisted by thirty-two Hindu boys and women.

"Lucky Kentucky" by Benny Davy and Gilbert Seymour, assisted by Pickininies, was amusing and well rendered.

"Heart of My Rose" captivated all who heard it and gave ample scope for the fine voices of the soloists, Olive McMillan and Reg. Wiseman, as well as for those of the excellent chorus.

At the opening of Act 4 "Go Long Mule" seemed to be quite popular.

Mr. Bird has produced some good plays here in times past, but it is the consensus of opinion that "Blind Love" eclipses them all.

Arrangements have been made to take "Blind Love" to Deseronto June 19th, Bath June 22nd, Shannonville June 23rd, and Picton June 24th.

MAYOR FRED NEWMAN

Like most men who have achieved success in life, Mr. Fred Newman had no special advantages over the average boy. He was born in the Village of Colebrook, Addington County, a few miles northeast of Napanee, where his father was in business as a general merchant. Although fate decreed that his early years were not to be spent in the environment of business life, it would almost seem that there were some inherited qualities which led him in that direction and made his life a marked success in the business world.

When he was a boy of only three years of age the death of his father made a great change in his family life, for it so happened that his mother married again and the second husband was a farmer. Here his life was spent as a young lad and during his teen years, gaining in this way a practical knowledge of farm life. As a young man he decided however to go into business, entering the employ of the Bay of Quinte Railway as station agent and agent for the Rathbun Company who controlled the Bay of Quinte Railway, and who had at the various stations on the line lumber and brick yards. In this way he gained valuable experience in the railway business and in merchandising. After two years in the employ of the railway he resigned his position as agent at Marlbank and came to Prince Edward County, leasing the Cooper property at South Bay, which included grain warehouses, general store and farm. For over four years he he carried on business here as grain buyer and shipper, general merchant and farmer.

The next move was to Picton, coming here in the spring of 1899 and establishing The Fair, in the premises now occupied. The business grew and prospered, and in the next succeeding years branch stores were established at Wellington, Napanee, Brighton, Gananoque and Trenton. During recent years all of these have been disposed of except Gananoque and Trenton which are still connected with the Picton store. In 1904 Mr. Newman bought the building now occupied by The Fair. The rapid growth of his retail business developed in 1910 in the establishment of a wholesale grocery by Mr. Newman. This was started in the Eyre Block. After a year in these premises he moved to the Wilcox Block and four years later in August, 1916, to his present premises, the old Queen's Hotel building, which he purchased and remodelled as a wholesale warehouse.

Mr. Newman is a keen hard working business man and has made a success of his business ventures. In addition to his own business he has helped to finance other undertakings and industries. Notable instances of these are the Regent Theatre and Picton Electrics, Limited.

In spite of a busy business life, Mr. Newman has always found time to devote to other activities. He first came into prominence in municipal affairs as member of the Citizens' League Council. This was an organization formed by the citizens to further the prohibition movement in Picton. He has served ten years in the Town Council, four years as Councillor and six years as Mayor, having held this position for the years 1916, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 25, the present year making his sixth term. He is the President of the Board of Trade, this year making the eleventh consecutive year in this position. He is President of the Prince Edward Poultry Association for 1925 and 1st Vice President of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society. He has been a member of the Hospital Board since its organization. By virtue of his office as Mayor he has been a member for six years of the Library Board, and the Public Utilities Commission. Since 1917 he has been on the executive of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association. He has also for some years been a member of the executive of the Provincial Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce. He is a director of the newly formed Canadian Association of Ontario and is President of the Eastern Ontario Cheese Producers Association.

He is also active in church matters, being a member of the Trustee and Quarterly Board of the Picton United Church and for several years Superintendent of the Sunday School. For 2 years he was Superintendent of the County Sunday-school. He is a Conservative in politics and for a time was treasurer of the town association.—The Picton Gazette, Picton, June 11th, 1925.

Mrs. Robert Ballance, Selby, and Mrs. James McCormick, Whitzeville, are sisters of Mr. Newman.

Exhausted From Asthma. Many who read these words know the terrible strain upon health and strength, which comes in the train of asthmatic troubles. Many do not realize, however, that there is one true remedy which will usually stop this drain. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful check to this enervating ailment. It has a countless record of Relief to its credit. It is sold almost everywhere.

The district visitor was sympathising with a shopkeeper who had just lost her husband. "I'm sure, Mrs. Grieve," she said, "you must miss him very much."

"Well, ma'am," said the bereaved, "it certainly do seem strange to go into the shop and find something in the till."

Now—your stockings—sheer and delicate—can be made to last

How to wash silk stockings:

Silk is an animal fibre, more sensitive than the skin on your face, because it has not the skin's power of renewing itself. Even a soap that is safe for the face, might not be quite fine or mild enough for those gossamer-like weaves with their lovely new colours.

Wash your stockings in Lux after every wearing. Gently press the foamy suds through and through them. This frees them from perspiration—that deadly enemy to silk and to colours.

Lux contains no harmful ingredients of any kind. It is so pure and mild it will safely cleanse anything that water alone won't harm.

WEDDING BELLS

Wright—Taylor.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon, at the Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa, when Ruth Estella, youngest daughter of Mrs. Taylor, of Ottawa, and the late J. S. Taylor, of Tamworth, was united in marriage to Perley A., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wright, of Truro, N.S. Rev. Wesley Megaw officiated, with Mr. Cyril Rickwood at the organ.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Clayton Taylor, of Lyn, Ont., the bride was attended by Miss Claela Fommerville, as Maid of Honor. Mr. Walter Shroeder supported the groom.

The bride wore a cocoa shade georgette dress trimmed with orient-al lace with a becoming hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The Maid of Honour wore an Alice blue georgette dress with hat to match, and carried ophelia roses.

The out-of-town guests included Miss Dorrice Taylor, of Brantford, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Waurde McNairs, of Morristown, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Taylor, Lyn, Ont.

The happy couple left for Truro, N.S., and points East. On their return they will take up residence at 97 Grove Ave.

WHEN ANNUAL RENTAL WAS ONE BARLEY CORN

Old Records of Department of the Interior Reveal Quaint Form of Nominal Consideration

At the present day one is quite familiar with the expression "for the sum of $1," or some similar phrase to indicate nominal consideration used in many documents conveying property. A recent search in connection with titles through some of the old documents preserved in the records of the Ordnance, Admiralty, and Railway Lands Branch of the Department of the Interior, revealed a quaint and rather curious form of this consideration. A lease issued under the authority of the province of Upper Canada in 1836 contained the following: "for and during the term of thirty years at a yearly rental of one barley corn." The usual item of nominal consideration in the early days was "a pepper corn", but this is also first case noted where "barley corn" was used. Possibly it was because barley was more common than pepper in this country.

The total production for Canada of commercial apples in 1923 was 3,493,193 barrels, valued at $24,483,350. The corresponding figures for 1922 were 5,015,405 barrels of a value of $24,692,182.

Only the uninformed endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Remover and get relief.

Every time you order shoe polish, specify "Nugget". It's the most economical in the end. Keeps all footwear looking "younger" and neater; feeds and preserves the leather.

Black, Tan, Tawny Red and Dark Brown. Also White Dressing (cake) and White Cleaner (liquid).

MARKET THE BROILERS

(Experimental Farms Note).

Now is the time to be selling the broilers. If there is a market for these young cockerels see about supplying it. It pays better to sell now, rather than later, all chicks intended for the table, and as for breeds such as the Leghorn, one cannot afford to keep them until fall and then sell for the price of roasters.

If a market is not already arranged, it would be well to see about it at once. Usually the broiler market should not be too far away. The best places to look for customers are as follows (named in order of highest prices)—private families, clubs, high-class hotels, summer hotels, high-class boarding houses; dealers, etc.

The best time to sell the broilers is when they weigh from 1 to 2 pounds each. The earlier in the season, the smaller the weight that will be taken, and the larger the price.

The most satisfactory way to market is to kill and dress before shipment, (all but dealers require them dressed), but for longer distances, and in warm weather especially, if sold to dealers, they may go alive.

Before selling the broilers it will pay to give them special feeding for 10 to 15 days. In experiments conducted at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, it was shown that a good feed was made up of equal parts of corn meal, feed flour and middlings. To this was added 15 per cent of tankage (or beef-scrap), and the whole mixed with buttermilk. One part of the dry mash to two parts of the milk by weight is the proportion. This mixture proved better than prepared commercial mixtures and fed three times a day to broilers weighing at the start less than 2 pounds each, gave in 14 days an average gain of a little over ¾ pounds at a cost for feed of less than 5 cents. At the price sold, (50 cents per pound) there was a profit of 29½ cents on the feeding operation.

The feeding in ordinary fattening crates gave slightly better returns than the feeding in pens, and the heavy breeds gave better returns than the light breeds.

Broilers above all classes should be fleshy. Do not market in a thin condition.

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Ended by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pusilier, Sask.—"For two or three days every so often I would have such pains in my back and sides that I could not do anything—could not even lie quietly in bed, and my head ached, too. I was this way about three years, but was worse after I was married. I was on a farm with not a house nearer than five miles and there was not a person to advise me, as my folks live in Manitoba. My sister-in-law told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took her advice and have been thankful for it ever since. After taking the medicine for three months I can say it has helped me a lot and I am doing fine. I am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to others and you may publish mine testimonial."—Mrs. HELEN BALANOFF, Pusilier, Saskatchewan.

Often some slight trouble will excite a general upset of the system. Such symptoms as nervousness, painful times, irregularity, backache and headache indicate some form of female weakness.

Women so bothered should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. This dependable medicine has helped thousands of women and it is reasonable to expect that it will help you. Try it today. Your druggist sells medicine. C

The highways are calling you. The extent of the good roads and their fine condition will surprise you.

It is not necessary to stick to the provincial highways. The county roads in most parts of the Province are maintained in excellent condition, and lead to spots none the less beautiful though not so well known.

See Ontario this summer. Get acquainted with the people and the beauties of your own Province. You will find good roads and good fellowship everywhere in Ontario.

These roads were built with your money and that of the other people in Ontario. Take a pride in them. Do not needlessly destroy them by reckless driving. Remember they are yours to use, not to abuse; yours to enjoy, not to destroy.

To protect them from needless wear and tear, the law provides a speed limit of 25 miles an hour. This speed limit also protects you and other motorists from accident on the highways.

Your co-operation in obeying the law is confidently looked for by the Government. This co-operation is in your own interest, because the damage which is done by excessive speed must be paid for by you and other users of the roads.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, and Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in obtaining the abuse of the roads of the Province.

The Social Code.

Men are kept orderly, clean and decent through the strength of an obsequiousness to social opinion which the prophets of individualism are in such haste to deplore. The social code, no doubt, always involves much inadequacy, much stupidity, some hypocrisy, some wickedness; but, taken by and large, the average of its prescriptions has probably been higher in every age than the average of unforced and unfettered individual impulse. Many of the things embodied in that wide tyranny, misfortunes bitter chilled the sense of the community are undoubtedly right, since they were once the distinctions of heroic minorities or the discoveries of fearless individuals. —O. W. Firkins in Atlantic Monthly.

"A Poor Poet."

One afternoon Browning went to call on Lady Kinloch and missed his way. A lady was standing on her doorstep, and he asked her to direct him to the house. She could not tell him, but offered to look it up for him in the directory and took him into the house, produced a directory, and together they found out what he wanted to know, and then she came out to the doorstep again so that she could point out to him the direction he had to take. He thanked her, went down the steps, hesitated and then turned and came back to her, saying: "Perhaps you may like to know to whom you have been so kind. I am a poor poet, and my name is Robert Browning."—Westminster Gazette.

A Bright Scholar.

One of the earlier French princes being too indolent or too stupid to acquire his alphabet by the ordinary process, a squad of servants were placed in attendance upon him, each with a huge letter painted upon his breast. As he knew not their names he was obliged to call them by their letter when he wanted their services, which in due time gave him the requisite degree of literature for the exercise of the royal functions.

Wrong Signal.

"I'm not at home to that gentleman, Jane," declared the belle.

"You haven't seen his card yet," protested modest. "You don't know who it is."

"True, but it isn't the machine I am waiting for. I am tell by the book."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Proof Positive.

"How do you know that Chancer dictated his old English to a stenographer?"

"Look at the way it's spelled."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

RAISE YOUR OWN FIELD ROOT AND VEGETABLE SEED

(Experimental Farms Note).

Despite the careful and earnest supervision, exercised by inspectors and seedsmen, in the buying and inspection of field root and vegetable seed, much of the seed offered for retail sale in this Canada of ours is presented. It often turns out to be another variety entirely, or is badly mixed and the resulting crop contains a high percentage of undesirable types. Of two hundred and twenty-nine varieties of field roots obtained from seedsmen, and tested during the past four years at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lennoxville, Que., only twenty-three have shown a reasonable trueness to type. Of the remaining two hundred and six, a few proved to be merely incorrectly named, but the majority were composed in part, or were wholly, of types entirely different from the recognized type of the variety they were supposed to represent. This unreliability of ordinary commercial seed is also found to a somewhat lesser extent with many species of vegetables.

The results of mixing, careless selection of seed stock or incorrect naming of seed is often more serious than would at first be supposed. Where a crop is composed of mixed types it is usually found that the majority of the foreign types are of an inferior nature and seriously depreciate the yield and quality of the crop. As an instance of this, of two lots of Half Sugar White Mangel grown at Lennoxville in 1924, one that was about ninety-five per cent true to type gave a yield of thirteen tons per acre more than the other, the crop from which was composed largely of roots representing other varieties and intermediate forms. And it should be added that the feeding value and keeping quality of the mixed lot was far the inferior of the two. Incorrect naming, although not so serious usually results in a crop of lessened value.

By growing his own seed of field roots and the common vegetables, the farmer, or gardener, has the matter of selection in his own hands. By careful, yet not laborious, attention he may not only maintain a high standard of purity and value in the seed he uses, but each variety may be gradually improved to suit the particular requirements of his farm or garden. Therefore, apart from the saving incurred by producing, instead of buying, seed, it is quite possible to produce larger and more profitable crops by growing seed at home for home use.

Detailed information on this subject may be obtained from any of the Dominion Experimental Farms or Stations.

Potatoes a Failure

Unless the vipes are protected from the ravages of the potato beetle, "Calpolso" will not burn the vines, nor wash off with the rain. The best thing yet for potato bugs. At Hooper's Drug Store, Sole Agents.

The young girl tripped lightly up and down the room in front of a huge pier-glass.

She was arrayed in a beautiful gown—perfect in every silk, and it was the night of her first ball.

Slowly she turned this way and that, joyfully admiring her slender figure, when, turning to her mother who stood proudly watching her, she said:

"Mother, isn't it quaint that this wonderful frock should have come from an insignificant little worm?"

Her mother, whose knowledge of natural history was not too extensive, replied:

"Oh, my dear, I don't think you ought to speak of your father like that!"

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"Bride of Twenty-one Gets a Job," says a headline.

Well, I suppose it was a case where one or the other had to work, and the husband, like a little gentleman, remembered the old saying, "Ladies First."

We extract the following from the "Gruntz," the Cantab, undergrads, magazine:—

"A novel shampoo. Take half a pound of golden syrup, and rub it well into the scalp. It not only serves to vivify the hair, and eradicate all cases of dandruff, but it solves the difficult problem of keeping a hat on during windy weather."

The manager of a certain Company dictated a letter to one of his assistants, superintendents which he typed, with a crave for unconsidered abbreviations, converted into the Am. Super. On receipt of this communication the Assistant Superintendent returned it to his chief with a comment that, "although he might be one, he rather objected to being labelled."

The landlady was showing the prospective lodger over the house.

"I think you'd find everything comfortable," she assured him. "This's be llvin' room."

He poked his head inside, and nodded.

"An' this," said the landlady, conducting him down a way that was dark, "this is the bedroom. Good an' hairy, you see!"

"Quite so!" assented the victim, withdrawing.

"An' this," proceeded the dame, "is our bathroom. Nice little room, ain't it?"

The young man stared blankly.

"Yes," he agreed; but—"

"Oh," broke in the landlady, "if you should ever want to use the barth, I dessay we could find another place for the coal."

—A miniature production of "Iolanthe" was given on Saturday afternoon, in the very pretty garden at Miss Dorothy Wilson's home. One end of the yard was curtained off for wings, and the stage was a very appropriate place for fairies to dance, with a back ground of tall green bushes and trees. Several dainty fairies in costume formed a charming chorus, and the principal parts were taken by the following young ladies, Miss Mildred Quenty; Miss Dorothy Wilson. "Phyllis"; Miss Mildred Smith, "Strephon", and Miss Doris Anderson, "Iolanthe". The performance was gotten up by the young ladies themselves, all of whom showed marked talent.

Mrs. Jones was particularly fond of reminding her husband that the silver was hers, the furniture was hers, the piano was hers, and so on, until poor Jones wished he had married a girl without a dollar.

One night Mrs. Jones awoke and heard strange voices in the lower part of the house. Punching her husband in the ribs, she cried :

"Henry, get up ! There are burglars downstairs !"

"Eh?" enquired Jones sleepily.

"Burglars downstairs !" shrieked his wife.

"Burglars!" said Jones, as he turned over. "Well, let 'em burgle. There's nothing of mine there !"

TRIBUTES TO REV. T. H. P. ANDERSON

At the regular Quarterly Board meeting of the Selby Circuit the following resolution was unanimously carried:

We, the members of the Quarterly Official Board of Selby Circuit, in session assembled, do and hereby unanimously passed the following resolution of thanks and appreciation for the past four years of efficient, faithful and unselfish service that you have rendered, both in your official capacity as pastor and also as a man among men; in the pulpit, the sick room and all the various departments of the church you have performed your duties faithfully and well. And now, as your term as pastor is drawing to a close, we do, as a Board, feel it our duty to recognize your services for the work which you have done, and the impression for good that you have left. We will follow your career with interest wherever duty calls you, and sincerely hope that your efforts will be crowned with success.

Again please let me express the thanks of the Board for your very efficient services.

Signed on behalf of the Board.

W. J. WINTERS, R.S.

To Rev. T. H. P. Anderson.
Selby, May 12th, 1925.

While the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson was being entertained to tea on Monday, 15th inst., he was called home to find the parsonage filled with guests, the members of the "Tried and True" Bible Class of Empey Hill Sunday School, and of the Ladies' Aid. A very happy social evening was spent, in the course of which Mr. Fred Russell, Superintendent, called the meeting to order, and Mr. Eugene Milling read the following address:

Empey Hill, June 15th, 1925

Dear Mr. Anderson.

It is upon this occasion of our last gathering as Pastor and people, that we wish to express our love and appreciation of the very earnest work which you have freely given during your sojourn with us. We wish you to know how earnestly we esteem the very fine service you have bestowed upon us as teacher of our Bible Class. You have been a helper ever willing, always jovial. All your undertakings have been stamped with the mark of consistency and efficiency, two qualities which we have appreciated highly. In times of sickness you have proved yourself loyal and true and a great comfort in times of bereavement. We, as a Ladies' Aid, also realize your great efficiency in building up our organization and your help in carrying on the work.

When you are gone we shall miss you, and our prayers shall follow both of you. We shall pledge ourselves to be loyal to your successor, as you would have us do, but the friendship formed will always be a pleasant memory, and the results of your labors shall be a constant reminder of what is expected of those you leave behind, and our prayers shall follow you to your new field of labor for the Master. And as we invoke the blessing of the Almighty upon you and bid you farewell, we ask you to accept from us this writing desk as a token of affection and appreciation for your past services. You shall have our united prayers for your continued success in the Master's Work.

Signed in behalf of the Sunday School and Ladies' Aid.

Fred Russell
Bruce Russell
Mrs. L. Melburn
Mrs. W. Waddingham.

Mr. Russell presented a very handsome desk of solid oak (famed finish). Mr. Anderson replied, expressing his appreciation and gratitude for their kind words, and very acceptable gift, and also for their loyal support during his four years' pastorate. He enjoyed the Sunday School teaching and thanked also the members of the Ladies' Aid, which had been organized two years ago and had done such splendid work under Mrs. Melburn's leadership. The whole company sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds". Refreshments were served, and the company dispersed about midnight. "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again".

LOADING A SOLDIER.

Weights the Privates in European Armies Have to Carry.

The weight a soldier in active service has to carry often becomes a burden, and frequently in a retreat or a fight much of it is thrown away.

Nearly all the soldiers belonging to European armies have to carry about with them in the field a kit which ranges in weight from thirty eight to sixty-nine pounds.

The equipment that the different soldiers carry about with them is very similar. It generally comprises a rifle and bayonet, with rags and so on for keeping them clean; an intrenching tool and, of course, a number of rounds of ammunition. Then there are the various articles of clothing, with changes, and a tent old outfit.

All the soldiers with one exception carry a knife, fork and spoon, water bottle and mess tin. The Russians, who are the exception, carry a wooden spoon only, which they keep in their boots. There is also a supply of food carried and generally one or two reserve or emergency rations. Together with an overcoat and the knapsack and similar accoutrements, the load to be carried is a considerable one.

The Russians carry most, the weight working out at sixty-one pounds, while the British, French and Germans come next in order, carrying weights of forty-seven, forty-four and thirty-eight pounds respectively.—Pearson's Weekly.

THE LADY AND THE COBRA.

With a Violin Recital the Effects of Which Were Magical.

An Englishwoman residing in India one evening found to her horror that a huge cobra had coiled itself about her veranda rails, near which she sat playing the violin. She was too near the snake to run with safety, so she continued playing while she gradually edged away. At first her only idea was to keep the creature thus engaged while she escaped, but when she had gained a safer distance and perhaps fascinated by the unwonted sight a strange inspiration seized her. She played air after air of different character.

The effect was magical. That snake behaved like an ardent, but blood disciple of Paganini. Every variation in the scale, whether of volume or tone, produced instantly a corresponding change in the attitude of the cobra. If she played a lively dance it swayed its body sideways to quick time and yet to graceful curves. Once she struck a number of false notes in rapid succession on purpose. The cobra waved and writhed in pain, as if suddenly struck with a stick.

Thus the creature behaved like a mad musician till the lady, getting tired of the sport, gradually edged herself farther and farther and then made a sudden bolt into her room and banged the door, leaving the cobra to wander disconsolate to its lair in the fields.—London Chronicle.

PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETS IN PICTON

Bay of Quinte Publishers Entertained at Castle Inn—Program Includes Motor Trip to Sand Banks and Outlet

On Friday the Bay of Quinte Press Association held its first meeting in Picton. This organization comprises Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington. The association has been organized for some years. Heretofore the annual meetings have been held in Belleville early in May. This year on the invitation of the Picton publishers, the annual gathering was held here, and on Friday the journalists from this district had the opportunity of seeing this county under June conditions. Some of them had never visited Picton before and all expressed themselves as greatly delighted with the day's outing. They were enthusiastic over the beauties of Prince Edward, with its fine farm homes, large orchards, extensive acreage of canning produce, fine roads and the splendid hospitality of its people.

The meeting was held at the Castle Inn, and they were delighted with the charms of this quaint old place, which is really a bit of old England transported into this newer land.

The visiting newspaper men arrived at 12 o'clock and were entertained at luncheon at the Castle Inn at 12.30, the guests of the local newspaper men. At the conclusion of the luncheon the business session was held in the beautifully decorated drawing room. On one side of this room is hung a large Flemish tapestry, most beautiful in design and execution, while the old fireplace, panelled ceiling, artistic furniture and fine rug added to the charm of the surroundings.

The chair was taken by President A. R. Alloway of The Oshawa Reformer, formerly of Trenton, Mr. A. E. Calnan, Secretary.

Those present included A. R. Alloway, Reformer, Oshawa; J. G. Keefer, The Register, Norwood; Harland Keefer, The Register, Norwood; Gordon Lapp, The Ensign, Brighton; G. A. Hudson, The Herald, Campbellford; James Watson, The Review, Madoc; D. H. Morrison, The News, Tweed; Allan Donnell, News-Argus, Stirling; Howard Jarrett, The Sun, Trenton; S. V. Dawson, The Intelligencer, Belleville; W. H. Morton, The Ontario, Belleville; A. G. Davey, The Ontario, Belleville; W. D. Embury, The Ontario, Belleville; A. Donahue, The Quinte Press, Belleville; William Steet, The Picton Times, Picton; Arthur Steet, The Times, Picton; L. B. Calnan, The Gazette, Picton, and A. E. Calnan, The Gazette, Picton.

After an introductory address by Mr. Alloway, the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—President, H. M. Price, The Times, Bancroft; Vice President, Allan Donnell, News-Argus, Stirling; Secretary Treasurer, A. E. Calnan, The Gazette, Picton; Executive, D. H. Morrison, The News, Tweed; Howard Jarrett, The Sun, Trenton; W. D. Embury, The Ontario, Belleville; James Watson, The Review, Madoc, and Arthur Steet, The Times, Picton.

The afternoon program consisted of an address by A. G. Davey, on "How to get Local Advertising", and a discussion on job printing led by A. R. Alloway. Mr. Davey said that he made a practice of calling on the local merchants at least once a week. In this way he learned something of their business and was able to suggest ideas for advertising. These weekly visits were also helpful in that news items were gathered in this way. The weekly visit reminded the advertisers of the need for newspaper publicity and created interest in advertising. The advertiser was assisted by furnishing suggestions, ideas and illustrations and in many cases the actual copy was written for the advertising. He believed that it was good business to call on the customers of the newspaper as it tended to create the cordial relations which are essential for success. Ads should be changed regularly as this helped to make satisfied customers.

Mr. Alloway in discussing the job printing problem, said that the printer should give his customer service. He advocated making regular calls and looking after the wants of the local merchants. He thought that the printer was not treating his customer right when he did not keep in touch with him and let him know that the local shop could supply his needs, often giving him better prices and better values than the outside travelling printing solicitor.

At 3 o'clock motor cars were waiting, furnished by members of the Board of Trade Club, to take the visiting newspaper men on a trip to the Sandbanks and East Lake Outlet. Some time was spent at the Banks as it was the first visit of many of the press men to this beautiful summer resort.

Returning to the Castle at six o'clock the party were entertained to dinner by Mayor Newman. The gathering was held under the auspices of the Board of Trade Club with Dr. Publow as chairman and about 35 members of the Club in attendance. Dinner was served in the spacious ballroom which makes a delightful banquet hall. The menu was excellent and the service left nothing to be desired.

The journalists were welcomed by Mayor Newman and Mr. H. S. Colleyer, M.P.P., both of them giving short addresses.

In welcoming the press men Mayor Newman said it was a real honor to Picton to have them visit the town. He appreciated the value of publicity and he knew that Prince Edward had much to advertise in the fine scenery, her diversity of products and the many attractions of this county. It had only to be known to be appreciated. He welcomed them to Picton and hoped they would come again.

Mr. Allan Donnell of Stirling replied to the address of welcome expressing the pleasure of the visiting press men in coming to Picton and their appreciation of the splendid entertainment that had been given them. He was sure that they would go away with the kindliest feeling to the people of Prince Edward for their kind hospitality.

Mr. Gordon Lapp of the Brighton Ensign, the Premier of the older Boys' Parliament of Ontario, was one of the speakers of the evening. Mr. Lapp is a very fluent speaker and handled his subject, "The Journalist as a Public Man," very well indeed. Mr. Lapp's ability, high ideals and fine personal character, promise to carry him a long way in any walk of life. Mr. Lapp said that the weekly newspaper was becoming a real influence in the community. It has a local field that cannot be filled except by the weekly newspaper. The weekly paper boosts the local town and its activities. It is a real asset to a community. That the political bitterness of former days is dying out is evidenced by the fairness of newspaper editorials.

The man who co-operates in public service was a public man whether in municipal, or other civic organizations or in the broader field of provincial or Dominion politics. The man who accepts these positions should have the sympathy and the assistance of the community rather than their criticism. It is a good thing to get the other fellow's viewpoint. The object of press gatherings was to dissipate selfishness and to get to know each other better.

Mr. J. G. Keefer of The Norwood Register, said the drive to Picton and around the county was a revelation. He had heard of Prince Edward as a canning district and he had seen something of what this meant. His subject was "The Community Newspaper", but he felt that it was like bringing coals to Newcastle to talk on this subject in Picton, where there were two of the best weekly newspapers in Canada. During recent years the newspaper has had many problems and difficulties. The coming of rural mail delivery had meant that the daily had invaded the weekly field. Some people thought that this meant the end of the weekly newspaper. While there had been a weeding out and some of the poorer weeklies had gone out of business on the other hand there had been an improvement in the better papers, as had been the case in Picton. The mission of the weekly newspaper is to serve the community and this is being well done by the Picton newspapers.

Mr. Davey of the Belleville Ontario, expressed his appreciation of the splendid day that had been given the journalists. He said that he felt the people of this county should advertise its attractions more.' If people only knew of the beauty of Prince Edward thousands of summer tourists would come here every year. In speaking of the county he always called it the "Garden of the Gods". He thought the County Council and the Board of Trade should get behind a real campaign to advertise the county.

Short addresses of thanks were given by Mr. S. V. Dawson of the Intelligencer, Belleville, and Mr. Alloway. Messrs. Arthur Steet and A. E. Calnan expressed their appreciation of the hospitality of the Mayor, the Board of Trade, the Castle Inn and all who had assisted in entertaining the outside journalists.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTS OF CANADA'S FORESTS

Estimated Value of Output Rises to $197,459,331 in 1923 — Growth of Industry.

The importance of Canada's forest resources and the rate at which they are being exploited is shown in the recent estimate of the total primary forest production in the Dominion for 1923, made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The total estimated value of all primary products of the forests is $197,459,331, an increase of 15.6 per cent over the 1922 total of $170,850,096. The extent to which the forests are being depleted in the process of exploiting can be seen in the estimate that the total primary forest production for 1923 involved the cutting of 2,671,654,862 cubic feet of standing timber. The addition of the volume of material destroyed by fire, insects, and other destructive agencies would bring the drain on Canada's forests to more than five thousand million cubic feet per annum.

In the 1923 production logs and bolts for domestic manufacture—the raw material of the saw-milling and allied industries—again head the list of products for Canada as a whole with a total value of $69,252,921. Pulpwood for use in Canada's pulp and paper mills comes second in point of value, with a total of $45,594,492. Firewood with a total of $38,723,272 stands third, and pulpwood for export follows with $15,525,004. Railway ties were cut to the value of $13,228,547.

A brick was flung through the plate-glass window of a London shop recently. Considering the shortage of housing accommodation, it should be made an offence to be in the possession of a brick without a license.

It Bids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia racks the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the worth of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

Mike—"Where are you going in such a hurry?"

Pat—"To the police station to get a warrant for my wife's arrest."

Mike—"On what charge?"

Pat—"Rocking me to sleep."

Mike—"You can't have your wife arrested for rocking you to sleep."

Pat—"Can't I? You should have seen the rock!"

CANADA IS THIRD IN SILVER PRODUCTION

Dominion's Mines Are Greatest Producers in Empire — 1924 Output Twenty Million Fine Ounces.

About one-eighth of the world's annual silver production comes from mines within the British Empire. Canada's silver ores have been the greatest producers within the Empire for two decades. To-day she is the third largest producer in the world, being surpassed by Mexico and the United States, which together contribute nearly 65 per cent. of the annual production.

Native silver was known to the American aborigines about Lake Superior before the arrival of the Europeans. Samuel de Champlain mentions the occurrence of galena on the east shore of Lake Temiskaming, directly opposite and a few miles away from the famous Cobalt area of Ontario, but knowledge of the presence of silver is not recorded. Silver ores have since been found in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia and Yukon. The principal producing areas in order of their importance are Ontario, British Columbia, and Yukon.

Records of production have been kept since 1858. These records show a total recovery of 451,000,000 fine ounces to the end of 1923. Last year the recovery was slightly in excess of 20,000,000 fine ounces. The price of silver fluctuates from day to day; the highest yearly average recorded is $1.35 per standard ounce 925 fine, and the lowest 51½ cents. The total market value placed on Canada's production during the years for which records are available is, necessarily based on average market values from year to year. Between the years 1858 and 1923 the silver produced was valued at $200,705,532; in 1924 the value was $13,519,043.

The mines of Cobalt, South Lorrain, and Gowganda, all in the Province of Ontario, are Canada's principal silver producers. Since the first discoveries in this area, about twenty years ago, the production has been close to 357 million ounces, or 79 per cent of the total recorded production since 1858. Present production is at the rate of nearly 9,000,000 ounces per annum.

Silver production in Yukon and in British Columbia is obtained from lead-zinc ores. Following the discovery of silver-lead-zinc ores in the Kootenay district a maximum production (4,151,231 ounces) in British Columbia was attained in 1901. Between 1906 and 1915 there was a marked decline, but since the latter date there have been advances. The present rate of production is about 8,000,000 ounces per annum. In recent years a number of silver-lead prospects were located in Yukon and rich ores are being mined in the Mayo district, where the present rate of production is about one million ounces per annum.

St. Andrew's W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society held their regular meeting in the Sunday School room on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lancaster read the scripture lesson, and Mrs. Howitt offered prayer. Reports of the different sessions of the Presbyterial, which met in Belleville, May 21st and 22nd, were given by Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Gerrow and Mrs. Laughland. A splendid talk on our Mission Work in Trinidad and British Guiana was given by Mrs. MacGregor. Music was contributed by Misses Katherine Henderson, Helen and Jean Lancaster, Evelyn Switzer and Marjorie Daly, who sang duetts, solos and choruses most acceptably. At the close of the meeting a cup of tea was served and a social hour spent.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

An interesting event took place on Tuesday, June 9th, 1925, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. German Wagar, when relatives gathered to celebrate the ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Wagar's father, Mr. Chester Brown, of Napanee.

Of his ten children, only five were able to be present, namely Mrs. German Wagar, Enterprise; Mrs. R. H. Wagar, Enterprise; Mrs. John Love, Yarker; Mrs. C. J. Vanness, Peterborough, and Mr. Clayton Brown, of Enterprise. Mr. Brown has three sisters living, one of which, Mrs. Mackins, of Mcseow, was present.

After singing "Be Present at Our Table Lord", about twenty-five guests sat down to a daintily prepared dinner. During the afternoon they enjoyed music and singing. The selections chosen were Mr. Brown's favorite hymns.

Mr. Brown is very active for a man of his years. He is interested in gardening and possesses one of the best gardens in Napanee. He enjoys reading and does so without the aid of glasses.

After wishing Mr. Brown many happy returns of the day, the guests departed to their respective homes.

DIRECT TOLL SERVICE FROM NAPANEE

In continuance of its programme of development of direct toll service, the Bell Telephone Company has added Napanee to the list of places which will have this service, connecting with Deseronto and Newburgh. On station-to-station calls, it is only necessary to give the name of the distant place and the required number—"Deseronto 46", for example—to the operator who first answers your telephone. The rate to either Deseronto or Newburgh is ten cents for a five-minute conversation.

This new service will do a great deal to facilitate business transactions between the towns, and many social affairs will be more speedily and pleasantly transacted as a result of the popularity of the service. 25a

AGED CLOYNE WOMAN BURNED IN LOG HUT

Mrs. Annie Bey, Cloyne, was burned to death at her little log home on Sunday afternoon as a result of a fire which started behind the kitchen stove. Mrs. Bey, an aged lady, had resided in a little log cabin for years, and for some time past had been quite ill. There was a fire in the kitchen stove and it is believed that sparks flew behind the wall and ignited the wall paper. In a few seconds the little hut was a mass of flames. Mrs. Bey's granddaughter, four years old, who had been living with her, made her escape from the burning building, but it was impossible to get Mrs. Bey out, as she was quite helpless.

The little log house was burned to the ground, and the charred body of the unfortunate woman, who was over 72 years of age, was taken out. Dr. Suddaby, Sharbot Lake, was summoned, and after viewing the situation, decided than an inquest was unnecessary.

OBITUARY

Garrett B. Joy.

Mr. Garrett B. Joy, the eldest son of the late Wilder and Rosanna Joy, passed suddenly away, with heart trouble, on Tuesday morning, June 9th.

Born at Vine's Corners in 1855, he moved when a child of six years of age, to his late residence on Dundas Street. When a young man of twenty-one, after graduating from Belleville Business College, he left with a party of Napanee boys for Virginia City, Nevada, and entered the employ of the Comstock Mining Company of that city, where he remained for eight years. Returning to Napanee in 1884, he married Maria Mancur, of Odessa, who survives, with an only daughter, a daughter-in-law, two grandchildren, and a brother, J. W. Joy, of Vancouver, B.C., the last surviving member of the family. Deceased was an active member of Napanee Lodge No. 86, joining that Order 50 years ago, and was treasurer for many years. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, from his late residence to St. Mary Magdalene Church. Rev. J. H. Coleman officiating. Interment in the family plot at Riverside cemetery.

A Special Matinee on Tuesday, at 4.30 p.m., for Children, At Wonderland

Mr. Tustin, Manager of the Wonderland Theatre, has prevailed on the producers of "Hunting Big Game in Africa" to run a special matinee on Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock for school children, and also to reduce the price of admission on the occasion to 15c. This will be the first time a road attraction has granted this consideration, but in view of the fact, that this picture is particularly interesting to the little folks, the concession has been granted and the kiddies are assured of their special performance. 25a

UNVEILING SERVICE

Held at Cataraqui Cemetery by Woodmen of the World

Two hundred Woodmen assembled at the city buildings, Kingston, on Sunday afternoon, and headed by the Salvation Army Band, marched to the Y.M.C.A., where motor cars were in waiting to convey them to Cataraqui cemetery where seven graves of departed members were decorated, after which all assembled at the grave of the late Sovereign Thomas G. Evans, and unveiled the monument erected to his memory.

The beautiful Woodmen service was opened with a fitting prayer by Rev. W. E. Kidd, of St. George's Cathedral, followed by the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," after which the ritual ceremony was exemplified by the following officers: Counsel Commander Sovereign, E. Hughston; Advisory Lieutenant Sovereign, A. Baker; Banker Sovereign, A. VanLaveri; Clerk Sovereign, J. Finnegan; Watchman Sovereign, R. VanHorn; Sentry Sovereign, W. H. Mallory, while Sovereign James A. Fogg acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The orations were given by Sovereign Clair Jarvis, Head Counsel Commander, of London, Ont., and Sovereign Charles Hanna, M.P., of Belleville, both of whom gave stirring addresses and outlined the importance of such occasions, and the objects of woodcraft in not only providing protection to the homes of Canadian citizens, but in marking the resting place when dead.

The ladies' quartette, furnished by Cooke's Church, contributed two numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Treneer and Miss Easson, after which a selection by the Salvation Army Band terminated the beautiful service.

Among those prominent in Woodcraft who were present from outside points, were sixty members of the order from Belleville; nine from Napanee; twelve from Smiths Falls; five from Ottawa; all of whom motored to Kingston for the occasion. Col. R. Young, Kingston, a veteran member of the order, was an interested spectator.

After the ceremony at the cemetery, the procession formed and marched to the cemetery gates, where motor cars were in waiting to convey the members back to the city, thus closing one of the most successful unveiling services ever held by Woodcraft in this district.

MOTOR-VEHICLE READ-LIGHT LAW

TO BE ENFORCED BY DEPARTMENT

The Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways today announced that it is the intention of his Department to immediately take special steps towards the enforcement of the Anti-Glare Regulations of the Highway Traffic Act.

Mr. Henry pointed out that the Act requires the Headlights on every motor vehicle to be equipped with an approved device for the elimination of glare and at the recent Session of the Legislature, the Act was amended so as to prohibit the use of headlight bulbs of over 21 candle power.

Motorists would be well advised to inspect the lighting equipment of their cars and make sure that they have both an approved device and the proper strength of bulbs. The Minister pointed out, however, that it is not sufficient to equip a car with an approved device and proper bulbs, the main difficulty has been that motorists have not heretofore given consideration to the focusing of the bulbs and the aiming of the lamps. The motorist whose headlights glare and dazzle is not receiving the best results from his lamps. If his lamps were properly focused and adjusted the light which is so objectionable to approaching motorists and which is frequently blamed for accidents would be concentrated on the roadway where it is needed instead of in the tree-tops.

The Department has just issued a pamphlet explaining in simple language the proper way to focus and adjust automobile Headlamps.

Mr. Henry also intimated that the practice of driving with but one headlight or without a tail light must also be discontinued. These are not new regulations but ones which are commonly neglected. Motorists clamor every year for a law which will require horse-drawn vehicles to display lights and yet these same motorists will operate their cars on the highways with but one headlight or without a tail light. Both are dangerous practices and offences for which penalties are provided. In the pamphlet just issued by the Department, the suggestion is made that motorists carry spare lamp bulbs the same as they carry a spare tire.

Another precaution which is frequently ignored is that of mirrors on trucks. Aside from the fact, that the law calls for a mirror on a truck, it is, in the opinion of Mr. Henry, an article of equipment as necessary as a horn.

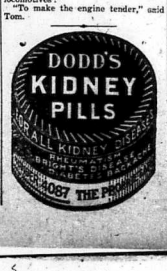
The Special Traffic Officers attached to the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Highway Department are receiving instructions and will shortly proceed to enforce these particular sections of the law.

"What is that big iron thing over there?" asked Laura.

"A locomotive boiler", said Tom.

Laura looked thoughtful. After a moment she asked, "Why do they boil locomotives?"

"To make the engine tender," said Tom.



HISTORY OF THE POLKA

DANCE WAS INVENTION OF LITTLE PEASANT GIRL.

Anna Slazak Made the Step to Fit Cramped Quarters Where she Danced And It Became the Craze of Europe—Seven Years From Now This Centenary Will be Observed.

Seven years from now a charming centenary ought to be observed, the centenary, namely, of Anna Slazak, who invented the polka. Nowadays nobody dances the polka. It is hopelessly old fashioned, more so than the waltz. Nevertheless, it is more than a possibility that the polka will come back. In the forties of the last century it swept Europe in a greater whirlwind of dancing delight than jazz swept the United States, or the Merry Widow Waltz swept Europe a few years ago. For a time it drove the waltz from favor, and until thirty years ago or even later remained one of the standard dances, the others being the waltz, the caprice, the schottische, and the two-step. Though she had set in motion a movement that extended throughout the civilized world, little is known of the fate of Anna Slazak.

In 1830 Anna was working on a farm in Elbateinitz. With two other goose girls she shared a bedroom in a cottage behind the stables. The great events in her life were when the gypsies camped by the town, twenty nights in the year. Then there would be music and dancing, and Anna loved both. She danced at her work, and at night when the three girls were alone she danced in her tiny bedroom, while the other two sang her orchestration. She learned to suit her dancing to the confined walls of her room. The steps that had been long became half-steps, and their time quickened to a double beat. She was not conscious that she was inventing a dance; she was merely adapting the dance she knew to cramped conditions. Then, one night when the gypsies came again she was encouraged to get up among them and perform a pas seul. The gypsies were delighted and one man stepped toward her and said, "I am Joseph Neruda. Prague is my home. It is a fine dance, that one of yours. It is better than the waltz; the waltz is too slow. Will you teach me? I should like to dance it with my sweetheart in the little beer garden behind the city hall. What do you call your dance? The 'pulka'? That means the half-step. It is a good name."

So Anna taught Joseph Neruda, and it was he who carried the dance to the outside world. When Joseph and his sweetheart danced the polka in the little beer garden behind the city hall the place was known to only a few, but those who were there immediately danced the polka, and the fame of it spread about the city, and soon it became the fashionable thing to go to the little beer garden and dance the new dance. Pergler, leader of a great military band, was delighted with the step, wrote music for it, and when his band visited Vienna, carried with it the fame of the polka and the music for it. Vienna was swept with it as it had been swept by Strauss.

In Paris the success of the polka was as swift and universal as it had been in Prague or Vienna. In a fortnight everybody was doing the polka. The Minister of Finance gave an order for forty extra bands to play in the parks and squares, and there in the great chateaux and town mansions people danced all night. It was not till 1844 that the polka reached London, and the Illustrated London News reported the first dance at Almacks. At first it was feared that it was not a dance suitable to the English temperament, but this fear was soon dispelled, and the dance rolled over England. Thence it crossed the Atlantic and became as popular in the United States as in Paris. It is said that in 1850, Georgetown, Virginia, permitted but two things. And the other was eggnog.

Bible Facts.

The following Biblical facts were collected by a student who spent months in compiling them.

The Bible contains 3,566,480 letters, 810,697 words, 31,175 verses, 8,189 chapters, and 66 books.

The longest Psalm is the 119th; the shortest the 117th. The middle verse is the 8th in the 118th Psalm.

The longest names occur in the 8th chapter of Isaiah. The name of God occurs 46,627 times, and Lord is mentioned on 1,855 occasions. The name of God does not occur once in the book of Esther.

The 27th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of 2nd Chronicles of Kings are alike.

The longest verse is the ninth in the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest verse the thirty-fifth in the 11th chapter of St. John. The first verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet.

Two Practical Minds.

The very prosaic young man was making his proposal. No sentiment with him; he wanted a proper understanding. "Can you make a home?" he asked the girl of his heart. "Oh, yes!" replied the girl. "Can you wipe them?"

After a time the flappers will go the way the dudes went.

A shallow girl sometimes gets a man beyond his depth.

Man has one advantage. As the weather grows warmer he can discard something.

Don't tear-up road surfaces by immoderate driving.

It's the back wheels of your car that push it along—and it's resistance that keeps it moving—the resistance of the road surface.

At moderate speeds, the surface remains in place. At higher speeds a portion of the surface is displaced by the friction of the wheels. The higher the speed, the more material is displaced.

The speed limit exists in the law to save the surfaces of roads, as well as to prevent accident. Because the highway is clear, you may think the law may be broken. This is a mistake. There is always danger of damaging the road by excessive speed.

The material which is displaced each year by automobiles driven too fast would weigh hundreds of tons. The repair work made necessary costs thousands of dollars.

The public of Ontario have spent $160,000,000 to make roads easier and safer for you to travel on. The law seeks to preserve from accident those who use the roads, and to conserve the roads themselves. The Government requests the co-operation of yourself and every other automobile driver in maintaining the condition of the roads. Take pride in the highways of Ontario. You are interested. Take they are yours. They are being maintained with your money.

While the Government relies on the goodwill and co-operation of the great majority of motorists, notice is given that the enforcement of The Highways Act will be all the more rigorous in the case of those who disregard the law and this request.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways as one of the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

Internal and External Pains are promptly relieved by DR THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

THAT IT HAS BEEN SOLD FOR NEARLY FIFTY YEARS AND IS TO-DAY A GREATER SELLER THAN EVER BEFORE IS A TESTIMONIAL THAT SPEAKS FOR ITS MERITORIOUS CURATIVE QUALITIES.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. CLANCY

For the sake of the great number who were unable to gain admittance to the church on the occasion of the funeral service for the late Dr. J. P. I. Clancy, we were privileged to give, in the most extended form, some out of the refining process of service for others. In the spiritual application this means purification of the desires, the removal of that which mars a soul's progress, and the power of assimilating fresh influences for good. It may mean the straining of the wheel or the slow, patient application of daily trials, or a hidden struggle against temptation, or grinding care or sad bereavement, or some misunderstanding, or misrepresentation stated that has left a wrong impression, or some charge that has no foundation—many of these borne with patience, returning good for evil and living above these with unselfish desire or ambition.

The writer of this text had lived through a period of extreme trial and persecution. He had watched his fellow Christians calmly facing difficulties and holding fast with a Christian faith in courage and patience which never faltered, and gloried in triumphant hope when their hour came. He had seen all these, and now he looks up, and for a moment the veil of the unseen is drawn aside, and he has a vision of the once suffering saints in glory, wearing the white robes of spotless souls and waving palm branches of victory. They have conquered in the earthly fight and received their reward, and they now serve God day and night in the Inner Temple. St. John pictures them, a great multitude, all of whom had come out of great tribulation, and been perfected, like the Master Himself, by their suffering.

The utter unexpectedness of many life sorrows is one of their strangest characteristics. They come like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, not only without any forewarning but apparently without any reason, and crushed hearts are left to grapple with the problem. Why has the trial been sent? Many a sufferer besides Job has turned his face to heaven in amazed perplexity and prayed: "Show me wherefore Thou contendest with me," and when no answer came they have called it unsolable mystery or inevitable fate. But while we do not know all His reasons, yet some of His reasons are plain. There are secrets hid in every tiny flower, in every grain of sand; in every throbbing nerve and aching heart, which our keenest vision can never discover. Every tear is a profound mystery. No one can tell us why we laugh or cry. No one can read his brother's mind or understand his own. Men who have studied the sorrows of men for a life time have declared His ways to be past finding out. "These are they which have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the lamb."

In the passing of our well-loved Doctor our community has lost one of its early settlers. For many years he has continued his ministry of healing. There is scarcely one in this vast gathering that he has not helped and to whom he has not administered some service. Those who knew him best loved him most. Many lives he has saved.

Through the struggles of early home life, he knew the value of education. He was a patriot. He loved his country. Better government, better laws was his ambition.

While he never sought office, the welfare of the county was always upon his heart. His educational ideals were of the very highest and best. Serving on the county board of the School Board, he gave his best for the education of others.

His one great passion was that the children of the community might have the most efficient educational privileges.

His last public act of service was to call the School Board together to deal with its problems. His fraternal spirit was good. He whole-heartedly believed in the universal brotherhood of man. He always took a deep interest in the work of his church, rendering great service during the early days in the erection of this building for the worshippers of the church of which he has been a life long member. But his individual service in the home surpasses all others. "He saved others; himself he could not save." No road was ever too long, no night too cold or stormy, no family ever too poor for him to attend. He went to every home of need. He was always at the service of suffering humanity. He was kind and gentle, thoughtful, earnest and true. He lived above the small and petty things of community life. "No matter what others did," he would say, "We will play the game and be true men."

In his home he was a kind and loving husband; a true father to his boys. He dearly loved them and always thought of their good. The good might kiss was not forgotten, even on the last night. But the companionship of the home life has been separated; the fellowship of the community has been broken.

In a moment—in the twinkling of an eye, he has slipped away to be with his God who is Father and Judge of all men.

And we cherish his memory, and in love and sympathy bring our flowers to pay tribute to his memory.

The utterances of Mr. Burley found a heart-wrung echo in the feelings of the immense concourse who, later, followed the remains in an unbroken procession extending all the way from the church to the cemetery, and amid the brightness of the afternoon sunshine of the awakening year, with the majesty and impressiveness of the burial service of the church and the not less inspiring farewell tributes to the departed brother participated in by over one hundred members of the Masonic craft, laid to rest in the last long sleep the earthly tabernacle of a personality, wonderfully winning, commanding and beneficent who, gone from personal conscious ken, yet will continue to live with fragrance in the hearts and lives of many.

You are sure to need some handy remedy for Sunburn, Insect Stings, Thorn Scratches, Sore Fingers. Zam-Buk has been proved to be the best. Take a box with you.

A SHIP'S EARS.

When Wireless Fails, Ships Send Messages Through the Sea.

Those ships which do not possess wireless installations, and those which have had their radio gear damaged, have still an ingenious method of communicating with one another at considerable distances.

Sound travels through air with a velocity of 1,118 ft. per second when the temperature is 66° F., but through water it travels four and a half times as fast. With this scientific fact in mind inventors have thought out a means of signalling at sea by employing the use of submarine bells.

The apparatus is comparatively simple. Outside the ship's hull well below the water-line, is an electrically operated bell for sending messages in Morse code, and a receiving instrument which can be called the "ship's ears." The latter consists of two tanks filled with sea water, fastened securely against the skin of the ship, one on the port bow, another on the starboard.

Within the tanks are microphones with telephone wires leading to receivers on the bridge or in the pilot-house. By this means one can hear and a distance of many miles, in addition to the rough position of the calling ship can be determined by switching off the port or starboard "receiving" tank. The immense utility of this method can be readily seen. Warships of the world's navies have these installations for use should their wireless be shot away, or when the use of light signals are impossible for fear of betraying their positions to the enemy. It is also the only known method of communicating with a submarine once she has left the surface. Consequently, submarines that have got into difficulties have been able to render assistance to their rescuers by tapping out messages from the submarine bell.

This method of signalling owes its discovery to the scientist, Colladon, who experimented on the Lake of Geneva with a bell weighing 150 lbs. suspended at a depth of five feet. He was able to hear strokes made by a light hammer upon this bell at a distance of eight miles.

His efforts were later improved upon by an American inventor, who succeeded, after innumerable experiments, in producing a system whereby regular signals could be heard from a ship travelling at a great speed fifteen miles away.

Since that time ships have made great use of the system, and many owe their immunity from shipwreck to it. Dangerous coasts, rocks, and shoals signal their whereabouts on the submarine bell, the same powerful shore equipment being heard at eighteen miles. The old form of warning, in which the bell was attached to the buoy above water, has been superseded by the more modern invention.

To-day buoys marking dangerous rocks strike a bell beneath the surface, the hammer being operated by the buoy's movement to the wave. The use of the bells and "ears" in fog is considerable. Cross-channel steamers, which frequently encounter fog, are assisted in groping their way into port by hand-operated bells lowered into the sea at the end of the pier or jetty.

An old sailor approached a farmer for a meal one day, saying he was willing to work.

"I will give you a meal," said the farmer, "if you will round up those sheep on the common there and drive them into this fold."

In three hours' time the sailor came back, looking foot but happy.

Glancing over the gate into the field, the farmer saw the sheep safely in the fold. "There's a jackrabbit sitting up among 'em," he exclaimed.

"Do you mean that little fellow there?" asked the sailor. "Why, that's the little beggar who gave me all the trouble. I thought it was a lamb!"

WHY YOUNG PIGS DIE

ONE DISEASE WHICH CAUSES HEAVY INFANT MORTALITY.

Something of the Life History and Methods of Combatting This Serious Menace of the Hog Industry—Milk.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The number of pigs lost between farrowing and weaning varies from 10 to 40 per cent. An enormous loss, that takes all or much of the profit on the season's operations.

One cause for this great loss is the common intestinal round worm (ascaris lumbricoides).

Life History.

The ascaris eggs are deposited in the small intestine of the infested pig by the adult worm and pass out of the body in the excreta, contaminating pastures and feed lots. In this state the eggs are not infectious, but in a few weeks if temperature and moisture conditions are favorable, the eggs become infectious. These eggs lying in the pasture or hog yard are swallowed by pigs grazing, rooting or feeding, and reach the stomach of the pig in the ordinary course of events, hatching on reaching the small intestine. After hatching in the small intestine they migrate by way of the blood stream to the liver, heart and lungs, into the lung tissue, through to the bronchioles and up the trachea to the pharynx. At this stage the worms are tiny thread-like creatures, they may be coughed out or swallowed, generally swallowed, go down the oesophagus and again reach the stomach and intestine. This round trip from the intestine back to the intestine takes about ten days. In passing through the lungs the young worms cause small hemorrhages which may result in pneumonia. Pigs that survive generally fail to develop properly and remain stunted. Frequently the young worms invade the gall bladder and ducts of the liver, causing a serious condition of unthrift or perhaps death.

Sanitation.

Clean farrowing pens, clean sow, clean pig yard, clean pasture, will give excellent results in reducing this preventable loss. Dirty yards and pens are generally loaded with worm eggs. When one female worm may produce 80,000,000 eggs, it is easy to realize how impossible it is for the young suckling pigs to escape infestation.

Profits in hog-feeding can only come by preventing losses. This enemy does its work unnoticed until it is frequently too late. Oil of chenopodium and castor oil are proving most satisfactory in the destruction of ascaris.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. C. College.

Swat the Roosters.

When the last lot of hatching eggs has been delivered the male birds should be removed from the flock, disposed of, or kept by themselves. Fertile eggs are an uncertain article in warm weather, so the aim should be the production of infertile eggs for domestic use. Germ development will start in a fertile egg at any temperature above 68 degrees Fahrenheit. At low temperatures the development of the germ is very slow, but it may reach a point in embryo development where incubation is likely to set in and thereby produce a condition not desired. Any factor likely to cause spoilage in eggs will be more serious in the fertile eggs than in the infertile. No one wants fertile eggs for domestic use. The removal of the males is the one sure way of preventing trouble.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. C.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS.

Letter from Mrs. Ayars Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Spring Valley, Sask.—"I took the Vegetable Compound before my last confinement, when I got to feeling so badly that I could not sleep nights, my back ached so across my hips, and I could hardly do my work during the day. I never had such an easy confinement and this is my sixth baby. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the 'Farmer's Telegram' and wrote you for one of your books. We have no druggist in our town, but I saw your medicine at Mrs. Eaton's store. I am a farmer's wife, so have all kinds of work to do inside and outside the house. My baby is a nice healthy girl, who weighed nine pounds at birth. I am feeling fine after putting in a large garden since baby came. (She is as good as she can be.) Yours is the best medicine for women, and I have told about it and even written to my friends about it."—Mrs. Eaton E. Ayars, Spring Valley, Sask.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system so that it may work in every respect as nature intends. All druggists sell this dependable medicine. Give it a trial.

Even Abe Lincoln, though never noted for his beauty, had some pride in his appearance. One day, the story is told, while going down the street, he met a man who looked him over closely and drew a gun on him.

"Stranger," the man said, "I swore that if I ever met anyone homelier than I was, I would shoot him on sight."

"Brother," drawled Abe, "if I'm homelier than you, I reckon you might as well."

Jugglers' Magic.

Many wonderful tricks are performed by Indian jugglers.

In one they make a boy disappear before a crowd of spectators. One moment he is seen plainly; the next he fades away and is quite invisible, though there is no hiding-place into which he could disappeared.

The trick has been borrowed by the jugglers from an Indian butterfly which has dazzling blue and red wings. As it flies it attracts every eye. And yet the moment it settles on a twig or tree it vanishes completely, and those who are not in the secret might search for years and never find it.

The under side of the wings is the exact color of faded leaves. Consequently, when its wings are folded, the creature looks like its surrounding and is invisible to anyone looking for a brightly-colored creature.

The trick of the jugglers is worked by the same simple means. The boy who is to disappear is dressed in brilliant clothing, the reverse side of which is pure white. When the movement comes for him to disappear he merely waves his arms and reverses his garments. Then he sits against a white wall or similar object, rubs chalk over his face, and the audience imagines he has vanished.

Curious Color Changes.

The possibility of a man's eyes changing their color as a result of mental shock or physical ill-treatment has been discussed by surgeons.

"It is common knowledge," stated one medical man, "that great physical hardships may suddenly turn the hair white. The loss of color follows on certain chemical changes, due to disturbances of nutrition, taking place in the tiny particles of coloring matter which gave the hair its tint."

All babies have blue eyes when they are born. In some infants pigment granules begin to develop in the iris immediately after birth. Thus they become black or brown eyed, in others no such pigment formation takes place, and the eyes remain their original color throughout life.

The Berlin Zoo.

The Berlin Zoo facing bankruptcy was forced to close through the winter, but it was hoped that funds could be secured so that it could open again in the spring. Some fears are entertained for the consequences of the winter's economy arrangements, since the herding of various types of animals together was made necessary.

Bathing Autos.

"Washbowls" nearly 300 feet in diameter and 7 inches deep in the center are suggested in Australia for washing automobiles. The vehicle runs around in the water and is then sprayed with a hose and dried by electricity.

Acknowledged the Coin

Even Abe Lincoln, though never noted for his beauty, had some pride in his appearance. One day, the story is told, while going down the street, he met a man who looked him over closely and drew a gun on him.

"Stranger," the man said, "I swore that if I ever met anyone homelier than I was, I would shoot him on sight."

"Brother," drawled Abe, "if I'm homelier than you, I reckon you might as well."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Dear Mr. Editor.

A couple of weeks ago we noticed in your paper an article about some prizes to be awarded in Napanee for the best kept lawns, flowerbeds and gardens during the present summer, and we decided right then to go out for one of those prizes. Our place isn't very big, but we have quite a few flowers and a good bit of a garden, so we got out our hoe and rake, etc., and have been putting them into action pretty regularly. Our place began to look up after a couple of weeks' attention, and we figured the judges ought to put us up pretty near the top of the list if they were on to their job. We've been so busy with our own place we haven't had much of a chance to look around at what others have been doing.

However, we took a walk with our kids on Sunday down Bridge St. to the river and around East Ward, and from the looks of a lot of places we passed, guess we have got to get out and do some more digging if we want to keep in the running. There are a lot of nice new places down in that part of the town with some very fine flower displays and well kept lawns and gardens. Some of the places noticed particularly were those of the Misses Wales, Mr. John Clark, Mr. John Vine, Mrs. Jas. Miller, Mr. T. D. Bermsshaw, Mrs. W. F. Hall, Mr. W. J. Dunbar, Mrs. Dingwall, Mrs. W. J. Shannon, Mr. G. D. Hawley, Mr. Wellington Brown, Mr. R. Bills, Dr. Cowan, Mr. E. S. Lapum, Mr. F. G. Bridley, Mr. F. L. Hooper, Mr. Alpine Woods, Mr. M. P. Graham, Mr. Albert Bartlett.

There were a number of others that also ought to be mentioned, and we didn't get a chance to see Adelphi St. East St., or John St., and they are two of these streets we missed seeing some of the best places in town. Guess we'll walk around that way some time. We know some people up on Pjety Hill whose places look pretty nice, but we think you'll find that East Ward will carry off its share of the prizes. We suppose the judges will be around pretty soon and we hope they don't strike our place the day the neighbor's kids are over here playing Indian, for on those days we wouldn't get much of a prize for neatness.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space in your valuable paper,

Yours truly,
THE LAWNMOWER.

LINEN SHOWER

On Friday evening, June 12th, friends and members of the Ready Helpers, numbering thirty-five, gathered at the home of Mrs. Geo. Knox and presented Miss M. Mills with many beautiful pieces of linen, in honor of her approaching marriage.

The home was decorated with pink peonies and syringa. At an appointed time the two little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grooms, entered the drawing room, pulling a prettily decorated cart, piled high with gifts, while one of the girls of Miss Mills' class showered her with confetti and a bridal bouquet, after which the gifts were viewed by all.

Miss Mills thanked her friends and assured all their kindness would always be remembered. Refreshments were then served from a prettily set table, these colors being carried out throughout.

Thus ended a pleasant evening, while Miss Mills carried away congratulations and wishes for a happy future.

Here is an example of the modern child's short-cut to knowledge:

"Do you understand French, Nannie?" inquired small Bertie.

"Yes, dear, do you?" replied the nurse.

"Yes, I understand it very well. When mother and father speak in French, I mean I'm going to have some medicine."

Question of Direction.

"When I started out in life," said Mr. Dustin Star, "I was full of ideal istic theories. I was determined that I would never take an unfair advantage of any man."

"But you had to sacrifice some of your ideals," suggested Miss Cayenne.

"Oh, yes. A man must be practical, you know. I have reached a point where I can afford to be indifferent to criticism. I begin at the bottom and worked my way up."

"Perhaps. But are you sure you didn't begin at the top and slide down?"—Washington Star.

Muensterberg Mastered.

Dad (from the hall—Why, Marjorie, how dim the light is to here!

Freddy (the fiance, not a college graduate in vain—Yes, sir. Professor Muensterberg has a theory that brilliant light benumbs the intellect. We are experimenting to find the degree of illumination by which the attention is kept vivid and the mental functions active.—London Standard.

Only One Flavor.

"I never take any other flavor in ice cream or soda water than vanilla," said the Boston girl to her New York cousin.

"Are you so fond of it as that?"

"Not exactly, but it is obtained from a bean, you know."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Family Jar.

"I suppose you know I came near marrying Jim Wombat before I married you."

"Yes, I know it," said the goaded husband. "He rubs it into me every time he gets a chance."—Kansas City Journal.

Then He Was Fired.

"Father—I cannot give you my daughter, my dear sir. Last night particular to such things. Sutton—Oh, pshaw! Why, I am not in the least so.—Magazine Blotter.

Changed Hands.

Mr. Harry Skitch, of London, has taken over the late Mr. Robinson's studio, which will be remodelled and opened very shortly. Mr. Skitch comes from a family of photographers, and has studied under Professor W. S. Lively, of Tennessee, one of the world's Masters of Portrait Photography.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile. The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big hasty year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountainous regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts averaged to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

—Mr. W. A. Steacy, the well-known baker, in pouring grease from one kettle to another, on Monday, had his leg badly scalded, one of the kettles accidently slipping. He will be confined to the house for a few days.

—The Sillsville W. M. S. will hold their July meeting on Thursday, July 2nd, at 2 p.m., in Sillsville Church. The report from the Branch Meeting will be given. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the work. Light refreshments will be served, and a social half hour spent. Come and give our delegate a full house, and get the spirit of the Convention.

—"Hunting Wild Animals in Africa", a title that perhaps is as strong a drawing card as a circus would be, was presented in pictorial form at Wonderland Theatre Tuesday night. A special matinee was given for the children at the conclusion of school at 4 o'clock and one show only was presented in the evening, the spacious theatre being crowded to the doors. Although the picture was of a thrilling nature, yet at the same time it was very educational and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large assemblage.

PRESENTATIONS.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. W. R. Tanton entertained the girls of Miss Mills' Sunday School Class at an afternoon tea, in honor of Miss Mabel Mills, a bride-elect of this month. During the afternoon, on behalf of the S. S. Class, Miss Kathleen Robinson and Miss Eileen McCormick presented Miss Mills with a silver cream and sugar set.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Exley was the scene of an interesting gathering on Friday evening, June 19th, 1925, the "Ready-Helpers" Class of Trinity Sunday School having met for a farewell social evening in honor of Miss Mabel Mills, who has been a member for several years, and has proved a very valuable asset to the welfare of the class.

An appropriate address was read by the President, Mrs. Susie Robinson, when Mrs. Exley presented Miss Mills with a pyrex casserole in a silver frame.

Miss Mills, although taken by surprise, thanked the Class very heartily and invited each and all to visit her in her new home.

After the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow", refreshments were served before the Class dispersed, wishing Miss Mills all the happiness possible in her new field of labor.

WEDDING BELLS

Kimmett—McLaughlin.

A very pretty wedding ceremony was performed at Marlbank Methodist Church, on Wednesday, June 10th, 1925, by Rev. W. H. Clarke, when Sara Marion, only daughter of Mrs. Ida McLaughlin, was united in holy matrimony to Mr. John H. Kimmett, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Kimmett, Roblin, Ont. The bride wore a tailored suit of Reindeer brown coverette cloth, with becoming hat, blouse and shoes to match. She also wore the groom's gift, a white gold bar pin set with a whole pearl. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary E. Kimmett, sister of the groom, also wore a tailored suit of fawn poiret twill. The groom was attended by Mr. Donald McLaughlin, cousin of the bride. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was an Onyx ring, and to the groomsman a tie pin.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for Windsor, Detroit and Niagara Falls. On their return a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, at which the bride were pouder blue and cantoon crepe. The rooms were prettily decorated with white peonies and ferns. After a social evening a dainty luncheon was served to about fifty guests by the bride's girl friends. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Milk.

Milk is our best all-round food. It is the most perfect food we have for human use. Milk tastes good, it is easily digested and is very nourishing. It makes bone, brawn and blood. The vigor and success of the people depend largely upon the amount of milk used. In Ontario we use about 2,000,000 quarts per annum, enough to float a fleet of battleships. Only about one-quarter of this is used as raw milk, the rest as butter and cheese.

A glass of milk contains a mixture of all the important things that make up a mixed and complete meal, as obtained from meat, eggs, sugar, cereals, oils and fat. Children must have milk, adults ought to, as it repairs waste, builds flesh and bone, helps growth, and keeps the body warm.

Milk contains all the elements essential to life. These promote growth and favor utilization of food. Fat soluble A is found in milk-fat as it prevents rickets in young animals and children. Water soluble B is found in milk; it is essential in preventing neuritic diseases. Water soluble C is also found in milk; it is the antiscorbutic vitamin which is interesting because it prevents scurvy, a common ailment among children.

Milk contains a great deal of lime. Children need lime and plenty of it, especially for growing bones and teeth. This liquid food contains all the necessary elements of a good mixed diet, and which at the same time can be used without special preparation and is available to all Ontario people at a price that should stimulate more extensive use.

Milk is the most difficult of all our foodstuffs to collect, handle and transport. It requires the greatest care from the green pasture to the pail and from the pail to the table. It spoils quicker than any other food. Keep it clean and cold.

Pure raw milk is better than purified milk, but it is so difficult to get pure milk that safety lies in pasteurization and low temperatures.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

Separate Cockerels and Pullets.

Remove the young cockerels from the flock as soon as the sexes can be determined. The male birds being heavier and stronger attend the pullets away from the feed and water, and thereby delay the development of the pullet flock. Young male birds should be marketed as soon as they reach the broiler stage. Any young male birds saved for breeding purposes should be reared on the range by themselves.

Vitamines.

Growth and development in animals are dependent upon a diet containing vitamines and correctly balanced chemically. Vitamines are widespread, and sufficient quantities of them occur in most natural foods, and yellow corn to properly develop young animals.

As Freddie had reached the mature age of three and was about to discard petticoats for another raiment in the form of knickerbockers, his mother determined to make the occasion a memorable one.

The fledging was in ecstasies as he appeared at the dinner table. Displaying his garments to full advantage he edged close to his mother and whispered: "Mummie, can I call pa Bill now?"

BREEDING DAIRY COWS

MUCH DEPENDS UPON THE USE OF QUALITY BULLS

Characteristics of a Good Bull—High Feeding Cows at Pasture—Care In Breeding Heifers—Apply Business Principles.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto)

The immediate possibility of lowering the cost of production of milk or increasing the flow of milk is dependent upon the care, management and feeding of our cows. It is possible within a single herd to do selecting and by purchasing replace our poorer cows with better cows; but, taking the Province as a whole, we must be content to get along as best we can with the cows on hands. The cows we have cannot be changed, but perhaps they will produce more if given more feed and better care. This limits the scope for immediate improvement. For any great improvement we must look to the future and since we must get along as best we can with the cows available, the great hope is centered in the sires we use.

Characteristics of a Good Bull.

To use a pure-bred bull simply because he is pure bred is unwise. He must either be a proven producer of good dairy cattle or else have the maximum possibilities of becoming a producer of good cattle. Such a bull should command a reasonably good price and we should be prepared to pay well for such a bull. This does not mean, of course, that we should not buy as closely as possible. A good bull should be masculine, he must have the characteristics of a good bull and should be strong in those points where the females are weak. For example, some Holstein cows with droopy rumps have been good producers. In such an instance the bull to which they are mated should not only have a good rump himself, but come from a family of good rumped cattle. Similarly cows that are low testers should be mated to a bull that comes from a high testing strain. It is well in selecting a sire to see that the family tree behind the bull is uniformly good, rather than to select a sire out of an outstanding individual with no record for either the near or remote ancestors. Then again, the bull must be typiest of the breed to which he belongs. In breeding any class of pure-bred stock type is of primary importance.

High Testing Cows at a Premium.

Since payment for milk is being made largely on a butter fat basis, there has come to be a great demand for high testing cows. Some people are trying to increase the butter-fat yield of the herd by crossing Ayrshire or Jersey bulls on Holstein cows. This practice should in most cases be discouraged, as the results when carried past the first generation are usually unsatisfactory. We cannot afford to sacrifice two breeds of cattle to obtain in the offspring all the virtues of each breed and none of the weaknesses. The opposite is just as likely to be true, otherwise we might expect that by crossing a heavy Draft mare with a Standard bred stallion to obtain the weight of the Draft horse and the speed of the Standard bred in the offspring. Experience has proven this not the case.

Care In Breeding Heifers.

Heifers should attain good size and be properly developed before being bred. In many cases heifers are bred at such an early age that they turn out to be undersized cows. The only argument advanced in favor of this early breeding is that perhaps over a period of five years an extra calf may be obtained, but it must be remembered that cows which are not properly developed cannot produce. In other words, the cow should be considered as a big factory. She should have size and capacity to turn large quantities of roughage into milk. She should, like all well managed factories, be given a resting period for repair. Even iron and steel will not last forever, and machines have certain idle periods when they are overhauled and put in good running order. This is equally true with a dairy cow. She should have a resting period before freshening and during this time she should be liberally fed in order to repair the worn-out parts of her body and build up a reserve strength to be used in maximum production during the lactation period. The liberal feeding of a cow during her period of rest previous to freshening will pay and pay well.

Apply Business Principles.

Dairying as well as all other lines of business requires the application of business principles. How often have you heard milk and cream shippers doubting the accuracy of the test which is being given them. This doubt or suspicion should not be. Producers should learn to do this testing themselves. A Babcock testing machine is not so expensive as to prohibit its use. Learning to do testing is fairly simple. The results obtained more than justify the expenditure. It gives every dairyman a reliable check on his cows. This coupled with the weighing of the milk will eliminate much of the suspicion of unscrupulous creamery men and should be a guide for the building up of a good herd of dairy cattle.—L. E. O'Neill, Live Stock Branch, Toronto.

At the last annual meeting of the fifty County Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, without a dissenting voice or an opposing vote, a resolution was passed favoring the use of "Ontario grown seed of all crops."

A boy, who had attended his first "luncheon out," brought home the following report of the event:

"I got on all right," he said. "At least, I only did one thing wrong, and I got out of that. I was cutting my meat and it slipped off on to the floor, so I just said careless-like: 'That's always the way with tough meat,' and went on with my lunch."

NOTHING IS NEW.

But Many Things Remain to Be Discovered.

"There is nothing new under the sun," said the pessimist long, long ago. There is nothing that man has found out in all the long centuries of his life upon the planet that was not more particularly in the beginning. All man's great discoveries have been simply discoveries of how to avail himself of things that were already there," writes the Rev. F. W. Norwood, D.D., in Daily Telegraph, London, in the "Homiletic Review."

"You remember the traditional tale of how Hans Lippershey, looking out through a shop window, accidentally turned in line two lenses which he held in either hand so that his sight, passing through the convex and concave glasses, saw the steeple of a neighboring church as it were drawn nearer unto him. It was only the discovery of how to use old things that made new worlds swim into view. When Fulton learned how to make the first steamship, you remember how he used to watch the ferry-man, a returned soldier who had lost his arms but yet wanted to earn a living for his wife, and ferried two paddles which he could work with his feet so that they turned in the water and propelled his boat. And Fulton said, 'I want something that will drive a propeller like that, and I shall have a ship.' Steam was a most familiar thing—he had but learned how to use it.

"Electricity is not a new thing; it was there in the days of Abraham; but at last men discovered how to deal therewith and it, and the world took on new characteristics. The kingdom had been there all the time, but men had not known how to live as its citizens. When the minds of men opened to the wonders of wireless telegraphy, it was not because it was a new thing, it was only because they had found out the secret of an old thing.

"There are wonders yet coming upon which will make the triumphs of our day seem mere child's play. There are things new and old in the future, maybe in the near future, before which the imagination at this moment would reel in utter unbelief. But, whatever he does, he will never make a new thing—he will only discover and put himself into harmonious relationship with some old, old thing that the Creator placed, potentially at any rate, in the heart of his world when he launched it upon its course.

"We have to make a rediscovery of the power of moral forces; we have to learn that we must give ourselves to the discovery of moral truth with the same earnestness that we give ourselves to the mastery of physical power. We have to learn that God will flow in upon us in the realm of the soul as he does in upon us when, with our lamps of knowledge, we inquire into the secret of the laws of nature."

Story of Berlioz.

Some amusing instances are related as to the musical enthusiasm of Berlioz. A medical student died in his room, and managed that he should live cheaply on the proceeds of some musical lessons which he had succeeded in obtaining. Once a week the two friends afforded themselves a visit to the opera. Berlioz, who was a fanatic where music was concerned, often caused strange disturbances at the theatre. He knew all the scores by heart, and could not endure that any alterations should be made in the intentions of the original composer. "It's a piece of impudence to leave out the cymbals there!" he would cry one day, rising in the air and pointing to the orchestra. The audience was, as may well be imagined, considerably astonished at this evidence of interest in art. What was their surprise when a little later they saw Berlioz standing on his seat, gesticulating with rage, and shouting at the top of his voice, "Down with those cymbals! There never was and never shall be cymbals in that passage!" The offending instruments had this time made themselves heard in a place where the composer had not introduced them. The musician was seized by the "sergens de ville," and promptly expelled. A few days after, however, he had his revenge. "What does that mean?" he cried, at a point in the performance which required this assemplithin. "You have left out something! There is a side there! Look at the score!" "Hear, hear! The side! Give us the side!" exclaimed the pit with one voice. The orchestra, highly offended, would do no such thing. Eighty of the audience, led by Berlioz, stormed their way in great excitement. The musicians fled, the curtain fell, and there was havoc among the instruments.

Swim Not, Drown Not.

Many seafaring men never learn to swim because they believe that when they are born fate has already decided how and when they shall die. The reasoning may be fallacious, but it is no less than that of the good Mohammedan and Hindu families in Kashmir, for many generations have taught their children that swimming is an ungentlemanly art. The elders tell them, says a writer, some thing like this: Aristocratic children should not learn to swim, for if they learn they will often get into the water. Those who go often into the water run a greater risk of being drowned than those who, not knowing how to swim, keep out!

A Fish's Intelligence.

According to Prof. Thorndike, a fish can learn to go to certain places, to take certain paths, to bite at certain things and refuse others, but not much more. It is an arduous proceeding for him to learn to get out of a small pen by jumping up through a hole in the screen.

HARDER THAN STEEL.

Diamonds Can Drill Hardest Rock As Well as Decorate Pretty Woman.

Nature has given us several kinds of diamonds. The diamond that the lady's tiara is very different from the diamond of a glass-cutting implement; and there are other forms as well. All however, consist of carbon.

When an element, such as carbon, has many different forms; it is said to be allotropic, and, if asked to define it one is meant by the word diamond, we should be right in saying the diamond is an allotropic form of carbon.

The diamond is the hardest known substance, and is practically the only material from which tools can be fashioned for cutting substances which are harder than steel.

In the manufacture of watches and other intricate mechanisms involving jewelled movements, or bearings, made from rubies, sapphires, or other precious stones, diamond implements are used in cutting and shaping the gems.

"Black diamond," a popular misnomer for a lump of coal (especially when it is dear!) is in fact the correct name of a certain class of diamonds which, by being granular and imperfectly crystallised, have a black appearance. Black diamonds are found only in Brazil, and, if left in their natural surroundings, become perfectly crystalline. They are used for the cutting points of rock drills.

Many quite soft substances, such as fibre, rubber, vulcanite, paper, and bronze quickly wear out steel tools with which they may be ground.

The initial cost of a steel tool is only a few shillings, whereas that of a diamond tool may be several pounds; but the diamond will more than repay its first cost in a much shorter time than the steel tool, which may be ruined at the outset.

Diamond-pointed tools last many times as long as any others, and, moreover, materials cut by them rarely require polishing or burnishing afterwards, so perfect are the cutting properties of the crystal.

The average rough diamond has a very ordinary appearance, differing little from a common pebble of the beach. The lustre and colorless property of the treasured jewel are only found in a small proportion of the diamonds discovered in the mines. The rough diamond is known as "bort," is as hard as the precious jewel, and is the kind generally used for grinding implements.

Diamond cleaving is an art in itself.

The crystal presents a form of grain, or lines of cleavage, along which only can it be split. A knowledge of the lines of cleavage, is very essential for the success of diamond cutting implements. Even the most experienced diamond-cleaver will study a crystal with his microscope for hours before cutting it.

This crystalline structure, or property of being cloven, is probably related closely to that peculiar property whereby one diamond will cut another. Although one piece of steel will cut out another piece of itself equal hardness, a sharp diamond will make a clean cut in another diamond, and be worn away badly in the process.

"Prayer."

"To-day men are seeking on a genuinely spiritual basis for civilization," writes D. S. MacColl, in the "Contemporary Review."

"Recent philosophy is at one with the teaching of religion in affirming the existence and nearness of a world greater than that which meets the outer sense. For psychology, in the process of evolution, stumbling, fallgerid our day, rising in the new vision of a sudden intuition, now plunged in darkness, ignorant of our powers, slowly discovered them, and perceiving, watching, listening, we are not alone in our earthly wanderings, we are already, though we may not be always conscious of the fact, citizens of a higher world. Call it what you will, the world, as a St. Paul, a Pascal, a Swedenborg have believed, there flash at rare moments messages, hints, fragmentary revealings of a brighter life and finer light and air.

"This spiritual world is not closed to us. In the silence we can hear the Divine Voice and discover, as if from the voice of our weaker self and of the world without. Hence prayer is a school of spiritual education in which he who prays advances from day to day in the knowledge of the best things of life. Inherited prejudices die out; new large aims are revealed; a sense of brotherhood is born, large ideals for self and for the world are gradually formed, and the forces making for a new and better state of society are quickened.

"'Prayer reminds us,' says Amiel, 'of pardon and duty. It says to us: Thou art loved—love in thy heart received—give; thou must die—labor whilst thou canst; overcome anger with kindness, and overcome evil with good.'"

Earthquake Shocks.

It is a little more than 150 years ago that English people took any interest in earthquakes. There had been several severe shocks in parts of the country, and then, in February and March, 1750, two shocks were felt in London. Something like panic ensued. People fled into the fields, in many cases going into miles out. The clergy preached on the subject, and special prayers were said. There has been no serious earthquake shock in that country, however, since 1884, and experts say that England is practically immune from earthquakes, because of the coal mines which honeycomb so much of the country.

A Female Bellringer.

Mrs. Arthur Shurtleff, of Boston, is said to be the only native American woman bellringer who has succeeded in ringing a "peal." On a recent visit to England Mrs. Shurtleff astonished veteran bellringers there with her perfect mastery of the bell ropes.

Divided Into Verses.

The New Testament was first divided into verses by Robert Stevens, a printer, in 1551.

Mrs. Breezy (with hammer) — There, I've hit the nail on the head at last!

Mr. Breezy—"Why do you put your finger in your mouth?"

Mrs. Breezy—"That was the nail I hit."

"My clothes used to be yellow - now they are snowy white"

"I always had trouble with my clothes—they used to come out so yellow. Then a friend told me about Rinso. I found it makes a wonderful soap solution. This removed every bit of dirt and then it all rinsed out completely. There was nothing left to yellow the clothes—as there was no soap to stick—it was all dissolved.

"I am now delighted with my wash—my clothes are always snowy white."

—A letter received by the makers of Rinso.

Just shake some Rinso into a saucepan, add hot water, and you'll get the wonderful soapy solution that is the only soap you need for your set tubs, your boiler, your washing machine. Rinso cooks dirt out.

THERE is only one McCLARY'S Tor-Red (Protected) Element and it does each and every one of these things:

Heats Quickly—By building up and multiplying the heat, instead of dissipating it into the air.

Retains Heat—The Tor-Red (Protected) Element retains heat and once heated will cook on "low" or "off" with stored heat.

Toasts Perfectly—Without risk of short circuit by crumbs getting into, or toaster coming in contact with the wiring.

Cooks After Current Turned Off—The stored heat in Tor-Red (Protected) Elements keeps them at cooking heat long after the current is turned off.

Saves Current—Because of the stored heat.

Reduces Repairs—Because nothing can get into the Elements by pots boiling over or dust or crumbs dropping on to the wiring.

Lasts Longer—Being protected, McClary's Tor-Red Elements need no cleaning or brushing, avoiding burnouts.

THE BADGE OF BETROTHAL.

There Have Been Some Strange Fashions in Engagement Rings.

Romance was not associated with engagement rings when they first came into fashion. The engagement ring is said to have originated as an institution to hold the fickle and forgetful man to his bargain from the time he declared his passion until the wedding ceremony took place.

It was during the second century B.C. that women began to flash an engagement ring on the fourth finger of the left hand as a symbol of betrothal.

It was displayed on that particular finger because of the belief, prevalent at the time, that a special vein ran from that finger to the heart. Later, this idea was scouted and other fingers became fashionable.

In Russia the ring was worn on the forefinger, and in France on the middle finger, while during the seventeenth century English women wore the ring on the thumb.

At one time the engagement ring consisted of three hoops looped together into what was known as a puzzle ring. On the wedding day one of these rings was given to the bridegroom, another to an intimate friend, and the bride kept the remaining hoop.

For many centuries the engagement ring did duty as a wedding ring as well. The wedding ring, also, was not given from sentimental motives, but was at the start an article almost as practical as a frying-pan! The wife was given a plain gold ring with a key attached, so that she, and she only, could have access to household goods.

The wedding ring was adopted by the Anglo-Saxons about A.D. 850. During the generations since then it has been alternately plain and elaborate. Very often the rings were inscribed in a puzzling fashion by interlocking the names of bride and groom.

Speaks Like An Englishman.

Jules Jusserand has been French ambassador at Washington for twenty years. Cordial as have been his relations with succeeding Secretaries of State, M. Jusserand's life in Washington has, by no means been a "grand, sweet song."

He has found it necessary again and again to protest vigorously against American tariff provisions which his Government feared would work damage to American industry. It is known that his views on the effects of prohibition on French wine growers would not bear literal reproduction.

A tense moment followed the news in November, 1909, that French warship had been dispatched to Nicaraguan waters, and that others were to follow. The French Ambassador explained, in a formal call on the State Department, that the sole function of the French warships was to protect French citizens.

Jusserand speaks English without an accent. His interest in the English language and English literature date from his youth. He has written several books on English life and English letters. His most recent work, written in the English language, "With Americans of Past and Present Days," which saw the light in 1916, is a valuable contribution to the history of the American Revolution and the founder of America's National Capital.

He has also written the "English Wayfaring Life," "English Novel in the time of Shakespeare," "Piers Plowman," "Les Sports et Jeux d'Exercice dans l'Ancienne France" and "A Literary History of the English People."

One of his contributions to American history was his discovery of records of contracts with Washington and other revolutionary leaders left by La Luzerne, the French envoy to the colonies at the time of the revolution.

How Do You Read?

Few people see the whole of each letter as they read. Most of us glance only at the tops of them. You can test this for yourself by placing a straight-edged piece of paper along a line of print. Cover the bottom halves of the letters and you have no difficulty in reading it; but if the upper parts are hidden, reading becomes a difficult business.

Reading speeds vary enormously. The average man can get through about 20,000 words in an hour. Fast readers will easily double this speed and still take in what they are perusing.

The greatest speed ever achieved was that of a famous man of learning who could read and remember more than fifty words a second. He is said to have read six novels a day.

Each line of print was 2½ inches in length, and there were forty of them to the page, his eyes must have traveled rapidly from side to side and a quarter from side to side in half an hour.

Broadcasting Concerts.

A bit of telephone history will show how few of the arts are entirely new. If you were to ask a radio fan what he considered the most recent marvel of science, he might very well reply, "Listening to a concert miles away." But as far back as 1885, nearly forty years ago, they were broadcasting concerts and operas and speeches! They did it over telephone wires instead of by ether waves. But the idea was otherwise exactly the same. They started in Budapest and called it the Telephonhirmondo. The idea spread to Paris and London, and for a while in these cities it was almost as much of a fad as radio today. But the novelty wore off.

Paper Making in China.

The only modern-type paper-mill known to have been tried in China failed on account of location, small local market, and impatience for dividends. Your papers are made by old methods are: Bark paper, from the paper mulberry; so-called rice paper, sliced from a pith; coarse paper, from rice straw or reeds; and bamboo paper, from young bamboo trees.

WHEN TURKEYS GET SICK

DISEASES WHICH OFTEN SPOIL PROFITS IN TURKEY-RAISING.

Pneumonia, Roup and Blackhead Cause Most Trouble — Timely Pointers In Dealing With These Maladies.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Three diseases, pneumonia, roup and blackhead are responsible for the greater part of the losses in turkey rearing.

Pneumonia.

Nature has not clothed the young turkey with a thick coat of down or feathers sufficiently to protect it from the cold rains that are quite common during May and June. Hence many young birds perish, dying of inflammation of the lungs shortly after experiencing the first cold rain. Little can be done to effect a cure. Everything lies in the direction of prevention. Do not let the young birds get wet, provide suitable shelter, and do not let them get too far away so that they may be quickly rounded up and protected from cold and wet until they are well-feathered.

Roup.

This trouble is due to an infectious organism gaining entrance to the nasal passages of the victim and setting up a catarrhal condition usually easily recognized by clogged nostrils, inflamed mucous membrane of mouth, very offensive odor and swellings on sides of the head. Housing young turkeys in unsanitary, poorly ventilated or draughty quarters creates conditions which make the bird very susceptible to the infectious organism causing roup. If the disease gains a grip on young birds, it is best to kill them off at once and correct the hygienic conditions for any that remain apparently normal. Exposed birds that are to be kept should be given good nourishing food and a physic of salts once a week. Birds showing symptoms may be treated, if so desired, as follows: Massage as much of the material as possible out of the nostrils, clean out the eyes, and if swellings exist open with a sharp knife. Use Boracic Acid solution or potassium permanganate solution or creyrol solution (10 per cent.) as a wash for the nostrils and eyes. Such can be applied with a medicine dropper or the bird's head may be dipped in the solution. If birds do not make good recovery in a reasonable time it is best to destroy them as they will carry the infection along and may be the cause of more roup.

Blackhead.

This disease is the most common and destructive pest affecting turkeys. It has been the cause of many a farm giving up turkey raising. The cause has been attributed to a protozoan parasite, that is taken up by the bird in its food and water. Soils become infested, breeding birds become carriers, so the young have little chance of escaping infection if feeding over ground that has previously supported turkeys. The young birds show signs of distress in the late summer or early autumn, become listless, drowsy, stop feeding, feathers become ruffled, wings droop, and they hang behind the flock. The droppings are yellowish in color and more frequent than normal. The head may become dark purple in color. The after-death symptoms generally noticed in blackhead cases are as follows: Liver spotted on surface with whitish yellow to faded green spots, the cecum, either one or both are thickened and distended with a gray cheesy mass. Treatment for blackhead has not been successful and its control lies in prevention. If troubled now, clean out the entire flock and give up turkeys for three years. When starting again, secure eggs from healthy birds, wipe them with cloth moistened with 50 per cent. denatured alcohol to remove any possible contagion, then hatch in the incubator. When the young poults are ready to leave the incubator place them in a brooder or colored ground and protect from other poultry or agents likely to carry the infection to the pen. Keep the house and its equipment clean and disinfected. Use sour milk or buttermilk liberally in the ration. Keep the birds confined all the time that infection may be prevented and treatment applied. Powdered iperac administered in the mash, twice a week, at the rate of two teaspoonsful per 20 birds is considered a useful preventative. The use of ipecac should start when the birds are two weeks old and continue for three months.

So Says Alberta Lady of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. L. Lipps Suffered for Three Years With Kidney Trouble.

St. Kilda, Alta., June 22nd (Special).—"I have suffered for three years with kidney trouble. I have been to the Doctor and have tried many other remedies, but they did me no good. I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and they were a great help to me. I could hardly do any house-work. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me much good. They are the best remedy I have ever taken." This statement comes from Mrs. L. Lipps, a well-known resident of this place. Kidney trouble is very common amongst all classes of people, and usually a lot of valuable time is lost by using unsuitable treatments. A good plan is to watch the kidneys and keep them healthy. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. They are used and recommended all over the civilized world.

ROD AND GUN IN CANADA

Bright stories and articles appropriate to the summer months feature the July number of Rod and Gun in Canada, a typically seasonable story being the first one in the book, "From Fort Francis to Windigo", by Mr. Martin McVey, which is an interesting account of a canoe trip in the Rainy River district. Fishing is a prominent pastime of the season, and for the lover of the angle, there is a heap of good reading material in the regular Fishing Notes by Robert Page Lincoln and a Dissertation on Angling of great merit by D. King Hazen.

Among the stories is one from the well known pen of Mr. Christmer Batten, a nature story called The Nomads of Aura Lake. The regular departments by Bonnycastle Dale, F. V. Williams, Martin Hunter, J. W. Winson and Guns and Ammunition by C. S. Landis show their usual high standard. Outdoor Talk contains many useful wrinkles for the camper, and the Kennel Department is a full and comprehensive one.

Mr. G. Post, a lineman, was injured near Napanee on Sunday morning, when he fell almost thirty feet from a tree on which he was working. He suffered a very bad shaking up and was taken to the General Hospital at Kingston.

Mr. Post had been called to repair the electric wire. The tree needed trimming and in carrying out this work he fell. He was picked up, but once in a very bad condition suffering from the fall. When he was taken to the hospital at about twelve o'clock, Dr. R. J. Gardiner was called and had the unfortunate man placed under an X-ray examination. CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The June meeting of Conway Women's Institute was held on June 24th, in Conway Methodist Church. A large number of ladies attended and were delighted with the address by Miss Edith Collins. Her topic was "A Girls' Preparation for Life". Many new ideas were gained, and it was well worth an afternoon off to hear Miss Collins speak. Her talk not only was for girls but the mothers of the girls.

Little Betty Haight gave a musical selection, and Mrs. Haight sang. This was much appreciated also.

The regular work of the Institute was discussed, and plans for the next meeting. Then lunch was served in the basement. Two of the young lady members had charge of the refreshments, and are to be congratulated on their dainty table arrangements and good lunch.

Unfortunately the programme cards for 1925 did not arrive for this meeting, but will be supplied for the July meeting.

A number of our members attended the District Annual Meeting at Napanee, on June 24th, and report a successful meeting.

Met With Painful Accident.

Master Don. Caton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Caton, met with a very painful accident on Saturday afternoon last, while swimming off a dock in the Napanee River. He was standing on the edge of the dock when he slipped and fell into the water, catching his leg on a long spike, inflicting a bad gash in his leg. Medical attention was at once secured but no serious results were anticipated. On Sunday blood poisoning developed and he was rushed to Kingston General Hospital, where doctors gave little hope of his recovery. The last reports from the Hospital were that the crisis was passed and that a speedy recovery was looked for.

Toronto Lodge Visits Oshawa Decoration Day.

The Riverdale Lodge No. 350 I. O. O. F., Toronto, remembered their late brother, Edward Blakely, who died March 25th, 1923, on Decoration Day, by some twenty-five members of that Lodge motoring down to Oshawa and calling on the widow and family at the home, Kingsdale Avenue; then motored back to the Union cemetery, accompanied by the widow and family, also Mr. Parson, of the Phonix Lodge of I. O. O. F., Oshawa, and Mrs. Parson, where they gathered at the grave of their departed Brother and husband. Mr. Dodge, of Toronto, took charge of the service at the grave, while the Brother Oddfellows placed a beautiful granite foot stone, suitably engraved, on the grave. The widow and family placed a beautiful large wreath and cut flowers on the grave also. After the Lodge had told the widow and family goodbye, they hurried back to Toronto to attend the decoration of their late Brothers in that city. The late Mr. Blakely was an uncle of Mrs. Walter Thompson, West St., Napanee, and the widow a daughter of Mrs. B. H. Frink, South Napanee.

Johnston—White.

A very pretty wedding took place on the morning of June 23rd, 1925, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. White, Tamworth, when their elder daughter, Dorothy Vera, was united in marriage to Ernest Wm. Johnston, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnston, of Picton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Clarke, retiring Pastor of the Tamworth United Church. The home was beautifully decorated with June flowers and white ribbons. Luncheon was served after the ceremony to about twenty-five friends and relatives. Later the happy couple left on a motor trip to New York and points south. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will make their home near Picton.

DISTRICT MEETING OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

On Wednesday, June 24th, the District Annual Meeting of the Women's Institute was held at Napanee. Tables were laid in the exhibition building at the driving park. At the picnic about sixty members sat down to dinner, including members from Napanee, Adolphustown, Maple Leaf, Wilton and Conway branches. Each of these Institutes were represented at the meeting following the dinner. As the Chamber of Commerce kindly united with the Institutes and provided sports so the men folks were not in the cold when the real business of the meeting opened. The dinner was quite a social success by bringing together the different branches to organize for future work.

Mrs. W. L. Haight, District President, opened the meeting with the opening ode, and introduced Mrs. Blair, of Billings Bridge, near Ottawa, as the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Blair claimed the rapt attention of all as she explained some of the hopes and aims of Institute work and how to make these possible. She impressed her hearers with the need for organized effort by appointing a convener of committees who would in turn have a convener in each institute to keep in touch with all work done in each branch and in this way much might be accomplished. Some of the worth while subjects for an institute to take up were : home nursing, public speaking contests for the lady members or for children of members, teaching singing, mothers' and daughters' banquets, etc. In speaking of nurses she mentioned Dr. Helen Macmurchie, and her earnest desire for better care of the country women and babes at time of maternity. This great lady doctor has a plan which if she can get it carried out will greatly help this work. Much more inspiration Mrs. Blair gave by her splendid address, and when she had finished speaking was given a hearty vote of thanks.

Mrs. A. P. Young, District Secretary, read the financial statement, also the minutes of last year's district annual. This was approved and signed by the President, and Mrs. G. Switzer and Mrs. G. Phippen were appointed as Auditors of the books.

Then followed a discussion regarding a rest room for ladies to be provided and cared for by the Women's Institutes on the fair grounds during the four days of Napanee fair. A committee was appointed to procure a tent and the Napanee Ladies' Band offered to furnish it with suitable furniture for the occasion. Four other Institutes promised to supply lady attendants for the four days of the fair, namely, 1st day, Maple Leaf Institute; 2nd day, Conway Institute; 3rd day, Wilton Institute; 4th day, Adolphustown Institute. There also took place further discussion of a permanent rest room to be furnished and cared for by the Women's Institutes of this district, to be situated some place in town handy and convenient for ladies who are in town shopping, etc. This will be brought before each branch and decided on later.

Napanee Institute gave a report of the year's work done by that branch, which is very favorable indeed. The writer of this was impressed with the sociability of the Napanee Women's Institute, and the delightful times they must have had at their Mothers' and Daughters' banquet. Then their Grandmother's Day, with its old costumes, old time cooking and quaint costumes, must have been very interesting indeed. The idea of reading current events at each meeting of Mrs. Wagar has done in Napanee Institute, tends to keep all the members alive and up to date.

Mrs. Haight gave a report of Conway Institute as doing hospital work, sending baskets to needy families, sending flowers to sick members, and giving cash prizes at the Sillsville school fair. Conway branch during the year has also held a debate, a spelling match, a candy contest, a musical contest, and a demonstration in home nursing, never having missed a meeting during the year in spite of bad weather, and always had the President, Mrs. Spearing, on hand. This means quite a bit of effort where the members are scattered over a large area and have miles to drive to attend any of the meetings.

Mrs. Fretts gave a report of Maple Leaf Branch. A shower of post cards are sent to any shut in members to greet their birthday or at Xmas. This branch has presented flags for their schools and had a social time at a meeting where these flags were hoisted. Speakers told of different historical characters and tried to make this event pleasant for the children. They had also made and donated quilts for the poor.

Miss Carr gave a report of Adolphustown branch having purchased drinking fountains for three schools in their township, of building up a new library and of caring for the U. E. L. cemetery. Carrier for the country cemetery is no small job and one that is often sadly neglected, so that Adolphustown Institute is to be congratulated on this good work done.

As Wilton Institute has been so lately organized, the representatives were too modest to speak of their doings, but I am sure they will have plenty of good works to report for the next district annual.

Then came the election of officers, Mrs. James Miller for President by vote, and the following other officers elected by acclamation: Mrs. Haight, 1st Vice President; Mrs. Fretts, 2nd Vice President; Mrs. A. P. Young, District Secretary.

It was moved, seconded, and carried, to pay five cents per member this year to send a district delegate to Ottawa Convention, and the delegate splendid.

Mrs. F. Allison gave a short address on Federated Work. She spoke of a number of good things the Federation has done and tried to bring about a better understanding of its purposes.

A vote of thanks was given for the retiring officers, Mrs. Haight and Mrs. Allison, to which they ably responded.

The meeting closed by singing "the National Anthem, and I am sure all carried home new ideas and many ideals for home and country, our Institute motto.

They broke the brass rails box from the candle stand and endeavored to steal alms boxes, which, however, were too well mounted for them.

The amount secured was comparatively small. Rev. M. Meagher, the pastor, stated, but considerable loss will be suffered repairing the damage done to doors and windows.

"Hitting it up"

Never a thought of the needless damage you do

"And when we hit the pavement, we found we had covered the last 54 miles in an hour and twenty minutes."

"Hitting it up" in the country where the traffic is lightest, SPEEDING—because the road ahead is clear.

Never a thought of the needless damage done to the highway by this excessive speed. Never a worry about the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent yearly to make it the road surfaces torn up by automobiles too fast.

The law provides a speed limit to save road surfaces, as well as to save motorists from accident. While the highways may be clear and there may be no danger of accident, remember the road is always beneath you and that no damage done by yourself and hundreds of thousands of other motorists is damage which you and your friends will pay for out of your own pockets.

You have no right to destroy the property of others, and it is common sense that you should destroy your car if you do this every time you exceed the speed limit.

Take pride in the highways. They are yours to use, not to destroy. Co-operate with the Counties and the Province in maintaining Ontario's roads among the best on the continent.

The Government requests you to obey the law, whether there is a traffic officer in the vicinity or not. Failing this request for co-operation of all motorists, it will be given notice that infractions of the law will be vigorously prosecuted.

Issued by the Ontario Department of Highways in co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public bodies interested in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

SOME FACTORS INFLUENCING THE CONTAMINATION OF MILK

While the sources of contamination of milk are understood in a general way, there is perhaps need of a more widespread knowledge of the relative importance of the various factors upon which the contents of the milk as it leaves the stable depends.

With the object of determining more closely the relative effect of the various factors, a series of experiments extending over five months was conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. In the tests the various sources of contamination were considered under a wide range of conditions, the numerous factors being divided for convenience into four classes, viz., care of the stable, care of the animals, care taken by the milker and care of the utensils. By extending the test over a prolonged period, during which daily bacteriological tests were made of the milk of a large number of cows kept under as nearly identical conditions as possible, results were obtained which indicate different degrees to which various factors contribute to the contamination of the milk.

It was found possible, by the careful exercise of ordinary sanitary precautions, to produce a milk of excellent quality without resorting to elaborate expensive methods. One of the points brought out was that the principal sources of contamination are represented by dirt and manure dropping into the pail during milking, and by improperly cleaned utensils. The contamination from the air, to indicate another source, is relatively less important, even when considerable dust is afloat.

The importance of the milk pail was clearly indicated, its state of cleanliness being of more concern than its form. While an open-top pail was found to result in an increased germ content of 200 per cent as compared with one with a small opening if the animals were neglected, yet when care was taken with the animals and the udder wiped before milking, very little extra contamination resulted from an uncovered pail. Of much more importance was the sanitary state of the pail. The tests brought out that this factor affected the contamination more than any other connected with milking. Under clean milking conditions a change from a careful scouring, preferably with the use of steam, to a neglect in the care of the pails resulted in a greater increase in the germ content than the neglect of any other single precaution, while, on the other hand, where generally unsanitary conditions prevailed, a change to a proper treatment of the pails resulted in a bigger improvement than from any other single favorable change of operation.

THE SILENT CITY

(By Geo. H. Fox, Lindsay)

Mr. Fox "the blind bard" has written a good deal of verse, but, for some time since, poor health has kept him silent. The production, however, from which the verses below are selected, suggested by the Decoration ceremonies of Thursday last, is among the best lines Mr. Fox has written.

Yea, this is a Silent City—
The city of the dead;
Let the voice be low and gentle
And soft the footsteps tread.

'Tis the home of ceaseless sleepers
Who awaken nevermore;
The gateway dim of passing life
In drift to unknown shore.

'Tis the place of weeping willow,
A plot of hallowed ground—
Let teardrops fall from riven clouds
While flowers be strewn around;

Let memory linger once again
On days that are gone by,
With faces sweet of vanished friends
Whose forms 'neath grass-mounds lie.

Here rest the good and good alone—
Faults fade at touch of death:
Short sermons may be read on stone
Life logficts in a breath.

And what is life, and what is death?
Two mysteries rolled in one—
Cradle and grave oft quickly meet
Through life that's scarce begun.

We live, we love, we laugh, we weep,
And then we droop and die;
But sun-gleams break the shadows deep,
That fall from clouded sky.

Like bubbles on the stream of time,
We drift down the years,
And find sunshine and shadows mixed
Bright smiles and bitter tears.

The bubbles break—we disappear!
The world moves on apace,
Humanity's a restless sea
In an unceasing race.

Through Faith and Hope we live and love,
And pierce the gloomy grave,
God's sunlight shines for all above—
Let hearts be stout and brave.

The spirit leaves this mortal frame
When earth's short race is run;
Clay caskets moulder into dust—
Oh, God! Thy will be done.

"Nearer my God" and "Rock of Ages"
Let the anthem sweetly roll,—
'Dust thou are, to dust returnest
Was not spoken of the soul."

Now in this sleeping City,
Mid graves and tombstones grim,
Say to yourselves, "Is the future safe?"
Ere stars of heaven grow dim.

The one God of the Universe,
Who rules both night and day,
With flaring torch of flaming Truth
Still upward points the way.

Then join the great procession—
Move on with steady tread;
March to the last grand triumph,
The victory of the dead!

Composed 1904.

CONSERVATIVES HELD BIG RALLY IN KINGSTON

Delegates From Entire South Eastern Ontario Assembled on Friday Last.— Officers Re-Elected.— Addresses by .Lt.-Col. A. W. Gray, M.L.A., W. D. Black, M.L.A., H. S. Colliver, M.L.A., and Others.

A fine spirit of optimism and an enthusiasm which will not be found wanting when the time comes to organize for an election pervaded the first annual meeting of the members of the Liberal Conservative Association of South Eastern Ontario, which was held in the City Hall, Kingston, on Friday afternoon last, with delegates present from every riding in the association and from almost every section of each riding. A feature of the meeting was the presence of three delegates from the most northerly point of the riding of Addington, which marks the "farthest north" limit of the association. These representatives came from the Village of Denbigh, and had travelled well over one hundred miles to be present.

In addition to taking part in the business of the meeting, which included the election by acclamation of the board of officers which directed the association during the past year, those present heard a number of splendid addresses from Parliamentary representatives and other prominent members of the Conservative party in the district, all of which breathed optimism and assurance of successes throughout the Dominion like that which had been achieved the day before in Nova Scotia.

The Business Meeting.

President Lieut.-Col. A. W. Gray, M.L.A., Brockville, presided and the meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes of previous meetings by the Secretary, Fred. A. Stagg Brockville. The reports submitted by the different officers were found satisfactory and were all adopted.

The officers for the past year were all elected by acclamation. They are:

President, Lieut.-Col. A. W. Gray, M.L.A., Brockville.

Vice-Presidents, Mrs. A. M. Rankin, Collins Bay; M. Graham and W. Wilson, Napanee.

Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Fred. A. Stagg, Brockville.

Executive Committee— Presidents of County Associations within the district covered by the association, members of Parliament in the district, as well as Presidents of Federal associations where they are not the same as provincial ones. A change in the constitution provided for the inclusion of the latter.

President Gray read a telegram from Mr. McNichol, President of the Provincial Association, Toronto, regretting that he could not be present at the meeting, a letter from Hon. Mr. Cook, who was absent on Hydro business and who could not be in attendance, and a telegram from Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, Toronto, regretting the fact that he could not be present.

Mr. Reg. Mostaff, President of the Kingston and Frontenac Conservative Club made the suggestion that clubs be formed in every district to work in co-operation with the county associations, and invited the delegates to visit the city club when in Kingston at any time.

The Addresses.

After the business session President Gray addressed the meeting briefly, pointing out the need of organization and enthusiasm, prophesying that the next Federal election would be victory for the Conservative cause and pointing to the result in Nova Scotia as an indication of what would happen throughout the Dominion when the next Federal election takes place.

Mr. W. D. Black, M.L.A. for Addington, spoke briefly dealing with the important legislation which had been passed by the Ontario Government, touching on the gasoline tax, the redistribution bill, the church union legislation and the temperance amendments. He spoke of the great strides in responsible government which had been made in this province since the administration of Hon. G. H. Ferguson took charge and urged the people to stand ready to keep up organization.

Mr. W. S. Colliver, M.L.A. for Prince Edward, reviewed some of the legislation brought in by the Ferguson Government, assured the audience that in the next Federal contest Prince Edward would return a supporter of Hon. Mr. Meighen and urged on all the great need of co-operation and organization. He suggested that a ladies' organization should be formed in every district and he told of two ladies in his county who had taken the platform and had carried on a splendid campaign, doing much better than the men would do, he said.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, of Belleville, brought a message from West Hastings to the effect that the Conservatives had lost ground since the recent Federal by-election by lack of organization; they had felt too sure of winning and believed that their past experiences for a long period of years would carry them through in spite of many lacks, in short, "we had been so used to winning that we thought we could not be beaten" he said. "Our experience shows how necessary it is to be constantly on guard, how important it is to keep up organization all the time."

Mr. J. Arthur Jackson, K.C., Gananoque, believed that things were coming the way of the Conservatives again and that it behooved everyone to be ready for the battle when it comes. Liberals in many sections of this district admitted that things were not well with their government and that the King Government was failing. He urged organization as the means to make victory sure when the pull came.

Many Ladies Present.

Occupying seats on the platform during the meeting were Messrs. W. D. Black, M.L.A., Addington; H. S. Colliver, M.L.A., Prince Edward; H. F. Ketcheson, Belleville; Fred Skinner, President of the Leeds County Association, Gananoque; C. G. McKnight, Godfrey, President of the Frontenac County Association, and J. F. Sowards, Kingston, President of the Kingston Association. Many ladies from all sections of the counties represented were scattered through the audience. The ridings represented at the meeting were: Addington, Brockville, Frontenac, Grenville-East Hastings, West Hastings, North Hastings, Kingston, Leeds, Lennox and Prince Edward.

MISERABLE AND ALWAYS IN PAIN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Help for Mothers

Port Greville, Nova Scotia.—"I took your medicine for a terrible pain in my side and for weakness and headaches. I seemed to bloat all over, too, and my feet and hands were the worst. I am the mother of four children and I am nursing my baby—the first one of four I could nurse. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before the baby's birth, so you can see how much it helped me. I cannot praise it too highly for what it has done for me. I took all kinds of medicine, but the Vegetable Compound is the only one that has helped me for any length of time. I recommend it to any one with troubles like mine and you may use my letter for a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT MCCULLEY, Port Greville, Nova Scotia.

Before and after child-birth the mother will find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a blessing.

Many, many letters are received giving the same sort of experience as is given in this letter. Not only is the mother benefited, but these good results pass on to the child.

No harmful drugs are used in the preparation of this medicine—just roots and herbs—and it can be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

98 out of every 100 women reported benefit from its use in a recent canvass among women users of this medicine. ©

Address and Presentation

On Wednesday evening, June 17th, a number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Richardson, Tamworth, to bid farewell to Miss Myrtle Simmons, who intends leaving for Windsor in the near future.

Miss Simmons has been employed in Mr. Richardson's insurance office at Tamworth for the past two years, and during that time has made many warm friends throughout the community, who deeply regret her departure, but extend every good wish for unbounded success in her new position.

A very enjoyable time was spent in cards and dancing. About 11.30 every one was called to order and the following address was read:

Dear Myrtle,—

We, the young people of Tamworth, have assembled here this evening to express to you our sincere regret at your intended departure and our good wishes for you in your future position. You will be greatly missed by all who know you and to whom your cheerful disposition and willingness was an inspiration and help.

Please accept this club bag as a token of our esteem, also as a remembrance of your eastern friends, and never forget the welcome that will be awaiting you whenever you wish to return.

Signed on behalf of the young people of Tamworth.

FARM PROPERTY INSURANCE

The Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company is now in the most successful period since its organization.

On account of the increased rates in stock companies every day farmers are making enquiries regarding fire insurance rates, having in view the placing of their insurance in a mutual company.

"The Lennox and Addington" has no liabilities and with the re-insurance facilities which it has with other mutual companies, is prepared to write large risks.

Because of the hard times, the Company's plan for yearly payments of the premium can be paid in one sum if the applicant prefers that form of payment.

Those seeking fire insurance are invited to call at the Company's Office, and the Secretary, W. E. Lott will be glad to give full information regarding rates. 27a

OBITUARY

W. H. McCracken.

A gloom was cast over the Township of Camden, when it became known that Wellington Herkimer McCracken, Roblin, had passed away. He had been ill three weeks with heart trouble, but pleuro-pneumonia developed, and he gradually sank until death relieved him at 7.15 on Sunday evening, June 21st. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCracken, of Camden Township. His mother predeceased him thirty-five years ago, and his father five years. When a young man he left for Gladwin, Michigan, where he spent about twenty years, returning about fifteen years ago to the farm where he resided until the time of his death. He was a man of sterling character and highly esteemed by all, his kindly disposition won and held for him the esteem of all with whom he came in contact, and his passing has cast a deep gloom over the home and neighborhood.

He was born in Camden Township on April 3rd, 1867, and was married eleven years ago to Gertrude L. Lasher, Roblin, who survives him, with two children, Francis aged eight and Douglas aged four; also six brothers and four sisters, Hugh, Glenvale; Martha, Gladwin, Mich.; Mrs. F. Leonard, Gladwin, Mich.; James, Oakland, Cal.; Wallace, Gladwin, Mich.; Archibald, Roblin; Mrs. Ed. Doidge, Selby; Belle, Gladwin, Mich.; Rev. Wilson, Campbell's Bay, Que.; Albert, Toronto.

The funeral, which was the largest ever held in Roblin, took place Tuesday afternoon at the Movement Church, and was conducted by Rev. Jeffry, assisted by Rev. C. J. Wilson, of the Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Jeffry took for his text Matt. 24 :44: "Therefore be ye also ready, for in such an hour ye think not the Son of man cometh." It was a very impressive sermon and touched the hearts of many. Mr. and Mrs. Crooks sang very feelingly. "Jesus Knows and Jesus Cares." The pallbearers were Messrs. John Belton, Charles McConnell, Samuel Hughes, Russell Hart, Christopher Martin and Edward Hart.

After the service the cortege left the church and walked to Roblin cemetery, where interment took place. Beautiful floral offerings were received from Toronto, Kingston, Napanee, Tamworth, and Greyden. Sincerest sympathy is expressed for the bereaved widow and members of the family.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

One of the circumstances that add life and work pleasant to those who serve took place at Newburgh, on Saturday evening, the 27th June, when a number of the members of the congregation met at the parsonage, and presented Rev. Mr. Nickle with the following address and a purse of money.

To Rev. George Nickle.

Dear Mr. Nickle,—Your friends of the Newburgh congregation desire in some small way to show their appreciation of your strenuous and unselfish labours since coming on the circuit.

We appreciate the fact that you came to the field at a time when many difficulties presented themselves. The circuit had just undergone a rearrangement which introduced new elements that had to be reconciled; you found a parsonage the renovation of which was long overdue.

These things, added to the regular work of a heavy circuit, created a situation before which a man with less energy than yourself might well have quailed, but you faced it bravely not sparing yourself in any way. You have fulfilled the scripture injunction "being instant in season and out of season" with patience and christian forbearance you have carried on the work.

Our best wishes will follow you and Mrs. Nickle to your new field, where we understand you are not strangers, and we sincerely hope that the work in which your hearts are centered may prosper in your hands.

NERO'S GOLDEN HOUSE.

Wrecked Roman Emperor Had a Colossal Palace.

The wicked Roman Emperor Nero, notable for his debaucheries; his extravagances, his cruel treatment of the early Christians, and, among other things, the murder of his mother, built the costliest palace that the world has ever known or probably ever will know. It was called the "Domus Aurea," or Golden House.

Remains of one end of this colossal dwelling have just been unearthed in the course of excavations being carried on under Governmental and scientific supervision. Many extraordinary discoveries have been made, and many more still more extraordinary ones are sure to follow. The digging so far has been done only on the Palatine Hill, and is a part of the investigations which followed the expulsion of the Germans from their diplomatic colony there at the beginning of the Great War. The site is being conserved, and the form of the Golden House, with its lakes and gardens, is rapidly taking shape.

Modern civilization can boast of nothing to be compared to this palace of Nero's. It stretched from the Palatine across the low ground, whereon afterwards the Colosseum was built, to the Esquiline, thus linking and crowning two of Rome's seven hills. From Latin authorities such as Suetonius and Tacitus we know that its cost was fabulous. No one has ever been able to estimate that cost exactly.

No matter what accusations have been brought against Nero, none has ever denied his astonishing imagination. On the Golden House he let this imagination run riot. It is set down that it contained one hundred thousand rooms of all kinds. Scores of these had their walls overlaid with sheet gold, studded with precious stones, and hung with masterpieces of art.

To defray its enormous cost not only were Italy and the Roman provinces ransacked and taxed to the utmost, but the Roman possessions in Greece and Asia were despoiled of their wealth. Just as another Roman Emperor wished the Roman people had but one head that he might cut it off at a blow, so Nero tried to concentrate in his Golden House the riches of his empire. He very nearly succeeded.

It was not only the Golden House itself, linking the two hills, that made it one of the wonders of the ancient world. The magnificent gardens, their lakes and meadows and woods that the Emperor raised to surround it, must have their share of glory.

They sprang into being a few months after the conflagration which in 64 A.D. credited with having started, and which, the popular legend has it, he watched while fiddling. The idea of the Golden House was one to have been born in his mind through the great fire, whether he played the violin during its progress or not.

It was not long after that the foundations of the palace were laid, and thousands of slaves and workmen began to transform the burned area into the earthly paradise of woods and lakes and gardens that it became. Whole groves of trees were carefully and scientifically uprooted and replanted as they are to-day about some new millionaire's estate.

Crabs Like Coconuts.

Probably not one person in a hundred realizes that this large hairy nut is one of the most important articles grown to-day.

From its flesh is made coco-butter, the basis of margarine and hundreds of other foodstuffs. It also supplies oil, and that delightful product of more than half of our ointments.

The husk of the palm is one of the most difficult trees to rear, for it has foes of all kinds. Elephants and monkeys tear down nuts and branches, doing great damage in the plantations. Giant forest-eating bats descend in dense clouds upon the trees, working havoc amongst the young nuts; squirrels gnaw holes in them and drink the milk, while there are insects that will strip an entire plantation in a few days.

One of the worst marauders is the robber crab, a queer beast which lives entirely upon land except at breeding time. This creature is so fond of coconuts that it has learnt to climb the trees in search of them and to nip them off with its great pincer claws.

Will Help League.

Leon Bourgeois, president of the French Senate and a renowned statesman to that body in order that he might devote the remainder of his life to the promotion of the League of Nations. Evidently France is beginning to consider that the League will prove no serious obstacle to the enlargement of French dominion Rhinewards. Dr. Benes is a thoroughly French and safe as his name indicates. He was the first president of the League of Nations Assembly and was at one time mentioned as a likely candidate for president of the Republic.

It is considered that with his great and mature political abilities he will be able to serve France better at Geneva than is at present the case, the titular head of the new France. An elder statesman, he is still vigorous in mind and body.

To Detect Flaws.

A piano is used in an English locomotive works as a detector of hidden flaws. As the component parts are brought together for assembly a man with a hammer goes all over each. If the metal rings true with a note on the piano then all is well, but if it is dull or flat a flaw is indicated and can be remedied.

Flags Are Laundried.

A Pacific steamship that is noted for the fresh appearance of its flags gives out the information that it sends them to the laundry almost as often as it sends the table linen. Oceanbound fog and smoke soon dim the bright colors of a flag.

PEDESTRIAN AND MOTORIST HAVE EQUAL RIGHTS ON HIGHWAYS

Standard of Care Required by Law That of "Reasonable" Driver Says President of Motor League.

Mr. T. N. Phelan, K.C., President of the Ontario Motor League, in the course of an interesting interview, gives some valuable information to motor vehicle owners on legal points that to the lay motorist are obtuse, equivocal, ambiguous or unknown. He stated that the standard of care required by the law, of drivers, in the care a reasonable driver would exercise. He must do those things a reasonable driver would do and must not do those things a reasonable driver would not do.

President Phelan pointed out that neither the law nor the courts demand that a driver exercise extraordinary caution or be possessed of prescience or proceed with preternatural care. He stated that theoretically the motor vehicle driver and the pedestrian have exactly the same rights on the streets and highways. Illustrative of the standard of care and relative rights of pedestrians and motor vehicle drivers, he cited recent cases. In an appeal it was shown that a pedestrian had stepped at night from the side of the Toronto-Hamilton Highway onto the pavement while walking alone beside it. He was struck and killed by a motor vehicle. The Appellate Court held that the deceased had been guilty of negligence, in not first ascertaining that it was safe to step onto the pavement, and that it was not reasonable to expect a driver to anticipate such an action as he had taken.

Reasonable Care Expected.

In another case, a physician had parked his car heading down a grade, in addition to applying his set brake (hand or emergency brake) he had turned the front wheels in against the curb. A mischievous boy, in the doctor's absence, turned the wheels to the straightahead position and released the brake. The car rolled down the hill gaining such momentum that when it came in contact with a house at the bottom of the grade, both house and car had their fronts smashed. The owner of the house took action to recover damages from the owner of the car, but was unsuccessful. The court held that the car owner had taken every reasonable precaution and that the accident had occurred and the damages had been sustained through no fault of his.

In case of fog or glare affecting visibility—the vision of drivers—the courts have held that it is reasonable and right to expect a driver to stop until he or she can see that the road ahead is clear for proceedure.

Before guilt is established in case of an accident it must be shown that negligence was the direct cause of the accident. Previous negligence or previous reckless driving, speeding, etc., is irrelevant and has no bearing on the case. For instance, if a motorist at the time of or immediately prior to an accident is driving legally the fact that he was driving recklessly a few minutes previously or otherwise breaking the law five minutes prior to the accident has no value as evidence in the case. Even driving contrary to law at the time of an accident has no bearing on the driver's liability for the accident unless it can be shown that such behavior was a direct or contributing cause of the accident. By way of illustrating this President Phelan cited a recent truck collision case that occurred in the Niagara Peninsula. An unlicensed driver was in charge of one truck, the other truck was running runlicensed, therefore, were being operated contrary to law. In the trial that followed the court held that their illegal operation had nothing to do with the accident—was not a cause—and so was irrelevant and not evidence.

Implied Consent.

President Phelan declared that there was one very important exception to this rule. It is that involving the province, county, township or municipality in which the ownership or trusteeship of roads is vested. Thus, some time ago, a truck two inches wider than the then maximum statutory width, crashed through a rotten bridge, doing much damage to the bridge. Action to recover damages from the municipality involved was quashed although it was shown that the 2 inches over width had nothing to do with the accident. The explanation of this seeming inconsistency is that the truck in not being constructed in compliance with the conditions under which the permit was granted for its operation in the province was guilty of trespass and its owner not only failed to collect damages but was required to defray the expense of repairing the damage his truck had done to the bridge. In this connection President Phelan pointed out that in case of damage done to motor vehicles by faulty highway or bridge notice must be served on municipalities within a week and in other cases within ten days.

Regarding liability, President Phelan stated that not only is the owner at all times held responsible when a car or truck is being operated with his knowledge and consent but is also always responsible when his vehicle is being operated by his chauffeur even at times when the chauffeur operates it contrary to his instructions. Implied consent has been the phrase around which many a legal battle has been waged. President Phelan mentioned two instances of interest that elucidate court interpretation of this "implied consent".

Some time ago a car was left by its owner in a garage for a minor repair. The foreman of the garage took the car out at noon, drove it to his home, picked up his wife and family and drove around town. In the course of the drive he collided with and injured a pedestrian.

Right-of-Way Relative.

The courts held the owner liable for damages on the grounds that there was implied consent that the car be taken for test purposes. Again a motorist turned his car into a garage for winter storage, giving instructions as to battery storage and other matters. The foreman of the garage took the car out and injured a man. The car had been used by the foreman despite storage orders, and so the owner was not held liable.

The right-of-way law is relative, not absolute, and does not relieve anyone of the statutory obligation to proceed with reasonable care at all times. Its intent, President Phelan said, was to prevent, not excuse accidents—a fact that all too many drivers seem to lose sight of. He pointed out, too, that the legislature has given emphasis to the law requiring drivers on overtaking other vehicles moving in the same direction to make sure that the forward-moving right-of-way is clear before turning out to pass the overtaken vehicles.

The rights of a guest in a car, he declared, are exactly the same, in so far as the driver and owner is concerned, as are those of a pedestrian on the road in front of a car.

Criminal liability, President Phelan explained, comprehends all cases involving criminal negligence or manslaughter; i.e., cases in which someone is injured or killed. No distinction is made, as many believe, between criminal and civil liability on the grounds of attitude of mind. This has been ruled by the Supreme Court.

President Phelan pointed out then the very important point that this ruling had and haas on insurance policies. Technically it is made and makes them null and void in cases of criminal liability. However, he declared it was only fair to state that except in very flagrant cases of criminal liability, cases in which it was manifestly to the interest of motorists that they do so, the insurance companies have not taken advantage of this ruling.

Finally he stated that he would not drive a car or truck a block without public liability and property damage insurance to a great sum the hazard. Damages are being assessed commensurate with the loss in personal liability cases and a man with a large income is as easily injured or killed as one with a small one.

"Father, why do giraffes have such long necks?"

"In order that they may feed from the tops of trees," replied the father.

"But why?" asked the son, "are the trees so high?"

"In order," was the reply, "that the giraffes may be able to eat."

She tried Lux for dishwashing
—now she uses it as a toilet soap, too

(Letter received from a lady in Ontario)

Dear Sirs:

Lately I have seen many articles written in praise of Lux. But I never yet have seen one extolling its use as a personal soap for dainty women. Until I used Lux three times a day to wash dishes with, I was grieved to see my hands getting dis figured, in fact I was ashamed of them when playing the piano. Finding that by using Lux for the purpose they soon became as nice as ever, I tried it in my daily ablution water, including bath! And now, I find the effect of using Lux far more softening on the skin.

Yours truly,

Lux for dishwashing, of course. Nothing better!

But use pure, dainty Lux for your daily toilet and bath, too! You will find it delightfully refreshing. Lux contains no free alkali and does not dry up the oils in the skin. The gentle, creamy Lux lather is soothing to the most sensitive skin and keeps it soft and smooth.

Persistent Asthma. A most distressing characteristic of this debilitating disease, is the persistency with which recurring attacks come to sap away strength and leave the sufferer in a state of almost continual exhaustion. No wiser precaution can be taken than that of keeping at hand a supply of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, famous as the most potent remedy for eradicating the disease from the tender air passages.

Two inmates of a Scotch asylum working in the garden, decided on an attempt to escape. Watching their opportunity when their keeper was absent, they approached the wall.

"Noo, bend doon, Sandy," said the one, "and I'll climb up your shoulder to the top, and then I'll gie ye a hand up tae."

Sandy, of course, bent down. Tom, mounting his back, gained the top of the wall, and dropping over on the other side, shouted as he prepared to make off:

"I'm thinking, Sandy, you'll be better bide another fortnicht, for you're no near right yet."

NAPANEE CHAUTAUQUA

Aug. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6.

Julian B. Arnold Will Lecture at Coming Chautauqua

Julian B. Arnold, distinguished lecturer, world-traveler and savant, the son of Sir Edwin Arnold author of the "Light of Asia," will be a notable speaker at the coming Dominion Chautauqua here.

Mr. Arnold will deliver his vividly interesting lecture, "Arabian Knights," depicting the Arab and his environment from the deserts of Arabia to those of the Sahara. He will deliver this unusual lecture clad in typical Moorish costume.

JULIAN B. ARNOLD

Mr. Arnold is peculiarly familiar with his subject. He has lived many years in the deserts of Asia and Africa and studied the Arab in many lands. He has a rarely intimate understanding of the Arab mind. He is, moreover, a speaker of startling clarity who presents, through the eyes of a cultured gentleman, a thrilling panorama of the subtle and enthralling lands of caravans and desert sheiks.

CANADA'S LOSS

"Are honourable gentlemen quite satisfied with a condition of affairs where we are supplying the possession of eighty to eighty-five per cent of the asbestos resources of the world, sends those out almost wholly in the raw state, procures for them only $7,400,000, finds them manufactured in the United States and sold over there for $75,000,000? Are we quite satisfied with a condition where we find Canadian raw material drifting there, employing but very few in Canada but providing the material for the employment of men in forty factories in the United States? If, that is all right, if that is satisfactory to the Canadian people, then nothing more can be said. If it's not satisfactory, the objective must be directly attributing to this country the Benefit of its own resources."—Mr. Meighen in enunciation of the Conservative Party's policy.

In the export of asbestos, according to Mr. Meighen's figures $70,000,000 is lost to Canada annually. To the same degree this coufftry is losing in the export of raw material for the manufacture of paper. One-third of Canadian production going out in the raw returns nine or ten millions of dollars; one-third going out as pulp brings a price of under forty millions, and one-third manufactured into paper sells for close on one hundred millions. The policy of the Conservative Party aims at the securing to Canada of the profit from the conversion of her pulpwood into paper. Under that policy, instead of the few millions received from the sale of the raw or semi-raw material, this country would receive the tens or millions forthcoming from the sale of the finished article.

"The time has come in Canada—it is brought home to us by experience very, very bitter—when we must assert every advantage we possess, and we must assert it in absolute fearlessness or retaliation or anything else" declared Mr. Meighen.

A LARGER HOME MARKET

Speaking on his tariff resolution in the House of Commons, Mr. Meighen asserted that if Canada produced all the textile goods the factories of this country have capacity to produce in the way of installed machinery there would be employment for men and women drawing wages of $100,000,000 a year. This is only one phase of the effect to be achieved by the Conservative Party's policy of protection for Canadian industry and of the conservation and manufacture within the Dominion of the raw products of this country. But the tremendous benefit to the entire country from the protection of this one industry can be readily grasped. It would mean $100,000,000 a year added to the purchasing power of the Canadian people. That additional amount of money would go into the pockets of other Canadian producers and those dealing in Canadian products. Farmers, laborers, artisans, manufacturers and merchants would share in its distribution. An increase of $100,000,000 in the purchasing power of the home market from the protection of one industry alone raises some vision of the prosperity to be achieved by a comprehensive policy of protection that will ensure the activity and expansion of existing industries and the acquisition of new industrial establishments for the manufacture of Canadian raw materials employing additional tens and hundreds of thousands of Canadian workers.

PROTECTION FOR FRUIT GROWERS.

Throughout this and previous sessions the representatives of the fruit and vegetable producing districts of Ontario and British Columbia have been demanding protection for their industry. Their demand has had no response from the Government. American potatoes and other vegetables have been permitted to drive Canadian produce from the market. Home grown vegetable and fruit crops are allowed to decay while the market is supplied from the neighboring republic. The loss to Canadian growers amounts to millions of dollars annually. In Western Ontario and in the valleys of British Columbia farmers with large investments are struggling against discouragement. An industry capable of giving over hundreds of millions of dollars a year is being blighted by unnecessary competition. Mr. Meighen, in the policy on which he is about to challenge the Government before the country, is assuring protection for this industry. The preservation of the fruit and vegetable producing activities of Canada does not mean merely protection for those engaged in them. It means as well an increased buying power for large sections of the Canadian people to the ultimate benefit of the entire community. The consuming as well as the producing elements of the Canadian people will reap the profit. The Canadian first policy of the Conservative party has an effective illustration in its application to this one industry.

COUN. MacGREGOR REMEMBERED BY COUNCIL

The Town Council met in the Council Chambers on Monday night in special session, and after the business had been transacted, they adjourned to the Campbell House, where Councillor Howitt had arranged a banquet to Councillor MacGregor on the eve of his departure for Scotland.

Mayor Ming presided, and after the supper he presented Mr. MacGregor, on behalf of the members of the Council with a gift razor set in morocco case. The incident was quite a surprise to Mr. MacGregor, who listened to the Mayor and other members pay glowing tributes to his work in the Council, as Mayor, as chairman of the Chautauqua Committee, and as a leader of every public interest.

Mr. MacGregor in answering, thanked the Councillors for their kindness and spoke of the pleasure it had been for him to work with those whose interest in the welfare of the town was so keen, and who gave of their time so generously.

Mr. MacGregor left on Thursday for Scotland to visit his parents, whom he has not seen for eighteen years.

WEDDING BELLS

Marshall—Birchall.

On Tuesday, June 30th, 1925, a very quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Patrick's R. C. Church, Rev. T. B. O'Connor officiating, when Miss Lillian Birchall became the bride of Mr. J. A. Marshall, the well known Manager of the Napanee Branch of the Dominion Stores.

The popular and charming bride was very becomingly dressed in orchid georgette with large white hat, carrying a bouquet of roses and sweet peas, her only ornament being a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary McGrath, wearing a beaded dress of rust georgette, with large hat, and carrying a bouquet of roses, while Mr. Gerald Gleeson ably supported the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Cavanagh.

After a daintily served breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, carrying with them the good wishes of their many friends, the bride travelling in a navy suit with honeydew hat.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a necklace of pearls, to the best man a tie pin, and to the organist a rosary.

Allman—Hegadorn.

At the Union Church Parsonage, on Tuesday morning, by Rev. S. F. Dixon, a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized, when Luva Victoria, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hegadorn, Ernestown, Ont., became the bride of Arthur Wilfred, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Allman, Oshawa, Ont. The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk radium lace over pale blue satin, trimmed with pearls, with white satin hat and shoes to match.

The bride was given away by her brother, Arthur, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Arthur Hegadorn and Laura, sister of the bride. Little Miss Leona, sister of the bride, wore a pretty frock of pink and carried a bouquet of white roses. Following the ceremony the happy couple returned to the bride's home, where a sumptuous wedding repast was served, after which they left on the 12.15 train for Cornwall. The bride travelled in mauve taffeta, with hat to match. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Allman will reside in Oshawa, Ont.

McLean—Coulter.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday, at 4 p.m., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Roy E. McLean, Strathcona, when his daughter, Vera Mae, was united in marriage to Stanley Scott Coulter, St. Croix, Virgin Isles, by Rev. J. H. H. Coleman, Pastor of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin canton. She also wore the groom's gift, a beautiful handwrought chain of gold suspending a pin with diamond setting, and carried a bouquet of pink roses showered with lily of the valley. Her bridesmaid, Miss Hazel Ostrander, wore a dress of yellow crepe de chene with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Frank Coulter. Following the ceremony a dainty repast was served, the happy couple leaving for Syracuse, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a very pretty costume of poudre blue and rose wood and hat to match.

Truscott—Mills.

On Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock a pretty house wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Mills, when their daughter, Mabel Edna, was united in marriage to Rev. William Howard Truscott. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of cream Canton crepe, with trimmings of lace. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Tanton, Pastor of Trinity United Church, assisted by Rev. W. R. Merrick, of Morven, in the presence of the immediate friends of the bride and groom. The house was prettily decorated with daisies, orange blossoms and roses. Following the ceremony, luncheon was served, after which Rev. and Mrs. Truscott left by motor for Toronto and Niagara, the bride travelling in a navy blue ensemble suit. On their return Rev. and Mrs. Truscott will reside at West Huntingdon, and have the best of wishes of a host of friends.

THE SMILE OF AN IRISH GIRL

From Ireland comes the maidens,
Their beauty the natural style;
They use no paint and powder,
And have the sweetest smile.

Oh, talk of black eyed lasses !
And the one with auburn curl,
But my heart it is wide open
For the smile of an Irish girl.

As fresh as the morning dew drop,
Or the salted Ocean breeze;
So modest in appearance,
Her ambition is to please.

I like her disposition,
And her sturdy, supple poise;
She is a modern woman,
The fountain of my joys.

MOUNTAIN GROVE

The Young People's League of Mountain Grove were invited to the "Birches" Cottage, Clear Lake, for their picnic on Wednesday, July 1st. A bountiful dinner and tea were served on the lawn to about thirty members and friends. The evening and the afternoon might have dampened the ground, but it did not dampen the spirits of the young people, who spent a most enjoyable time swimming, boating and fishing.

The League had a picnic to-day at the "Birches"

Where they celebrated the first of July;
And a happier bunch, I'm sure none of the churches
Could muster, no matter how hard they would try.

The Mountain Grove ladies are great on the cooking,
And spreading their bountiful table with care;
With the help of the girls so extremely good-looking,
Made everything pleasant for those who were there.

Those girls are so clean, unassuming and winsome,
They never display any envy or strife,
I've thought if I only was young, rich and handsome
I surely would go to the "Grove" for a wife.

When dinner was over, one made a suggestion,
When feeling so good and no sign of fatigue,
That Methodist like, we take up a collection
Contributing that to the good of the League.

The next on the programme the entry for racing,
The girls and the boys on a course that was rough,
And everyone watched as it grew more exciting
The races, that, well—they just did not come off.

Then quite unexpected, the next contention,
Was rendered without the least tremor or fear,
Selections of some very choice elocution,
By a talented friend who is visiting here.

Then the boys had a swim, but the girls seemed to falter,
"Come in" said the boys, "you have nothing to fear",
In answer to one who said, "How is the water?"
"It's cold, and so wet for this time of the year."

DESERONTO

L. O. L. 1275, Deseronto, will (D.V.) parade to St. Mark's Church, Deseronto, for Divine service on Sunday morning, July 12th, at 11 o'clock, according to good and ancient custom. A cordial invitation is extended to L. O. L. 99, Tyendinaga, and all Orange Brethren to be present. Rev. E. Radcliffe, B.C.L., Chaplain, will address the Brethren. All are welcome. Services at St. Mark's on Sunday last were very enjoyable. The musical portions of the beautiful Communion Service of the Anglican Church were well rendered by the Organist and Choir. The Rector preached two practical and thoughtful sermons, at 11 a.m. on "Be Loyal", at 7 p.m. on "The Credentials of Christianity".

NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

After considerable discussion, and with a view to eliminating accidents in the town, the Council, at its regular meeting held on Monday evening, passed a by-law containing the following amendments :

Section 10, of By-law No. 1043, was amended to read as follows : "The driver of every vehicle shall not leave the same standing, whether tied or loosed or not, attended or unattended, for more than fifteen minutes during Saturdays from 6 p.m. to 12 p.m., on that part of Dundas street which lies between East street and Robert street."

The said By-Law No. 1043 was further amended by adding as Section 13a the following : "All vehicles approaching Dundas street from the north along the following streets, namely, East, John, Centre, Robert and West streets, shall come to a full stop before entering Dundas street at the white painted line on the pavement at the several street intersections and Dundas street."

The public generally are respectfully asked to assist our guardians of the law by following the above instructions. There is plenty of parking space off of Dundas street, which will be cheerfully placed at the disposal of auto drivers. The best plan is to park your car in an authorized place, do your shopping and sight-seeing, and when ready to depart, drive your car to the store and pick up your parcels. Fifteen minutes will allow plenty of time to do this and you will find that you can drive Dundas street under this by-law with perfect safety and convenience. This will not be a hardship upon any person, as the time limit applies to Saturday nights only, from 6 to 12 o'clock.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Dear Editor :

Ilsaw a letter in your paper a week or two ago, signed by the "Lawnmower", and telling how nice and neat they keep their places down in the East Ward. Now if he wants to see some well kept places, let him walk along Mill Street some of these days. Most of the places along our street are just of moderate size, but the people take as much pride in their flower beds and lawns and gardens, and are proud of their appearance. There has been lowered the water rates for the summer, several people down there have taken advantage of the reduced rate to put in outside taps for garden and lawn use. We, that live in our section of the town is going to get just as many of these prizes for well kept lawns and gardens as they will down in East Ward. If your correspondent will start at Mr. King's corner and go right along Mill Street to the West end, he'll see some places that will make him sit up and take notice, and maybe he'll learn something too.

Thanking you for publishing this, I am,

Yours truly,

X. Y. Z.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE AND HOME ECONOMICS

Two school courses that the young people of this County have not previously had the opportunity of attending are being planned for this winter, beginning December 1st and ending March 1st, a period of three months. But before final arrangements are made, it will be necessary to have the promise of forty students for each course. For boys and young men, a complete three months' course in Agriculture will be given. Subjects of study will include live stock, farm crops, soils, chemistry, bacteriology, fruit growing, flowers, vegetables, dairying, poultry, bees, weeds, insects, fungus pests, farm mechanics, forestry, farm management and English. For girls, the Course in Home Economics will cover foods and cookery, household administration, housepianning and decoration, home nursing and first aid, sewing and millinery. Competent instructors for these classes will be provided by the Department of Agriculture.

It is quite likely that at least one of these courses would be conducted at the Collegiate Institute, which is being enlarged, and to the staff of which has been added a teacher with special training in Agriculture.

An opportunity for training such as these courses offer is desirable to be had except where an agricultural college or domestic science school is located. All boys and girls who are not taking the regular High School course and those who have passed through High School should be enrolled in one of the special classes. In fact these courses are planned for any young men or young women between the ages of fifteen and thirty. In order to make necessary preparation and arrange for the teaching staff, all young people who expect to attend one of these classes, must send in their names to J. Laughland, Agricultural Representative, Napanee, before July 18th.

There is no question about the value of courses of this kind and apart from the regular studies the two classes will have an opportunity for development along social, literary and athletic lines. The value of these courses to Lennox and Addington depends on the attitude of the people toward them. If there is indifference, there will be no classes; other Counties have taken them. Rapid action is needed. Any young man or young woman who can possibly arrange to attend one of these courses for three months during the coming winter should forward the name immediately—not later than July 18th.

"Give and Take," Sparkling Comedy, a Chautauqua Feature

"Give and Take," uproarious comedy success by Aaron Hoffman, which recently had an immensely popular New York run, will be one of the big features of the coming Dominion Chautauqua.

The story of the play centers around a wealthy California fruit canner, who has spent thirty years of his life in developing a business for his son, who, when given the reins, attempts to run the business on the "industrial democracy" plan. Most amusing and unusual situations, together with a delightful love story, characterize this irresistible play, which will be presented by a cast of New York actors.

REV. H. B. NEAL KINDLY REMEMBERED

Hayburn, June 19th, 1925.

Dear Mr. Neal,—

The young people of Hayburn feel that we cannot let you go without showing in some tangible manner that we have appreciated your untiring efforts on our behalf.

Sometimes your work must have been very discouraging on account of our seeming indifference, but you can rest assured that your work has not been in vain. The lessons you taught cannot easily be forgotten, and your patient cheerful spirit will ever remain in our memories as an example for us to follow.

In parting, we wish you success in your new field of labour, and hope your work will be blessed as we feel it has been among us, and wherever you may be called you will be sure that the young people of Hayburn are sympathizing in your sorrows and rejoicing in your joys.

As a slight token of our love and respect will you accept this club bag. We hope you will find it useful, and that it will sometimes recall the many pleasant times we spent with you.

Signed on behalf of the Young People of Hayburn.

MILDRED RIKLEY, President.
JEAN MAGEE, 1st Vice President.
ROY LOYST, Treasurer.
DORIS RIKLEY, Secretary.

Rev. H. B. Neal, who for the past three years has been Pastor of the Adolphustown Circuit, was pleasantly surprised on the eve of his departure by his many friends on the Adolphustown Circuit. As a slight token of the high esteem with which Mr. Neal is held, and as a token of appreciation for his capable leadership and wholehearted devotion and untiring efforts, the Sillsville congregation presented Mr. Neal with a purse of money.

Many sincere regrets were expressed by both people within and outside of the church because of Mr. Neal's departure.

At the closing morning service at Adolphustown, Mr. J. L. Haycock, Sr., on behalf of the congregation, recalled the three happy years of Mr. Neal's pastorate at Adolphustown, and the very efficient service which Mr. and Mrs. Neal have rendered. Never was the circuit in a more prosperous condition than at present. Sincere regrets were expressed at his leaving.

After Mr. Haycock had spoken, Mr. and Mrs. Neal were presented with two beautiful boxes of silverware, as a slight token of appreciation of the love and esteem with which they are held.

Mr. Neal leaves to take charge of the Wooler Circuit.

MINERAL ADDITIONS TO THE GRAIN RATION OF HOGS

(Experimental Farms Note).

Some valuable information relative to the importance of adding mineral matter to the usual grain rations of hogs has been secured at the Agassiz Experimental Farm during the last two winters.

The mineral mixture used was composed of ground bone meal, 8 pounds; ground charcoal, 5 pounds; ground rock phosphate, 5 pounds; and salt, 2 pounds, at a cost of 2.7 cents per pound. It was fed at the rate of 3 pounds to each 100 pounds of meal.

In order to test this material, a total of 84 pigs were divided into fourteen lots of six pigs each. In every ration where the mineral mixture was fed increased gains were secured. This applied not only when the usual trough-feeding method was followed, but also when self feeders were used and when the meal ration was supplemented with cooked potatoes. In one instance there was a profit of $7.85 in favor of the mineral ration.

An increase of six per cent. of mineral matter proved unsatisfactory and gave similar results to those supplemented with two per cent of rock phosphate.

When other mineral matter is not available, ordinary wood or coal ashes thrown on the floor gives good results.

W. H. HICKS,
Superintendent Experimental Farm
Agassiz, B.C.

The reporter from London was interviewing the oldest inhabitant of a rural village who had just completed his century.

"And have you been married?" asked the newspaper man, with interest.

"Married," echoed the hale and hearty old man, "married * * * I should think I have been. Four wives I've had * * * and what's more one of them was a good 'un."

A certain farmer was observed by his wife to be unusually pensive. "A penny for your thoughts!" she remarked.

"I was thinking, my dear," he said, "what epitaph I should put on your tombstone."

As his appetite was in perfect health, naturally, she resented this undue thoughtfulness.

"Oh, that's very simple," she responded briskly. "Just put 'Wife of the Above.'"

CHANGED ONE LETTER.

How a Serious Political Crisis in Canada Was Averted.

At the period when British Columbia was threatening to withdraw from the Dominion of Canada because the Carnarvon settlement had been ignored by the Mackenzie administration the late Lord Dufferin took part in a public function in Quebec.

While the procession was moving through the principal streets a gentleman, breathless with excitement, hurried up to his excellency's carriage to say a "rebel" arch had been placed across the road so as to identify the viceroy with the approval of the disloyal inscription thereon.

"Can you tell me what words there are on the arch?" quietly asked Dufferin.

"Oh, yes!" replied his informant. "They are 'Carnarvon Terms or Separation.'"

"Send the committee to me," commanded his excellency. "Now, gentlemen," said he, with a smile to the committee, "I'll go under your beautiful arch on one condition. I won't ask you to do much, and I beg but a trifling favor. I merely ask that you alter one letter in your motto. Turn the S into an R—make it 'Carnarvon Terms or Reparation'—and I will gladly pass under it."

The committee yielded, and eventually Dufferin contrived to smooth over the difficulties and to reconcile the malcontents.

SENSES OF TREES.

Something Almost Human In Some of the Plants' Actions.

Mr. James Rodway, who is the curator of the British Guiana museum and an eminent botanist, declares that plants have at least three of our five senses—feeling, taste and smell—and that certain tropical trees smell water from a distance and will move straight toward it.

But trees not in the tropics can do as well. A resident of an old Scotch mansion, says a writer in the Scots man, found the waste pipe from the house repeatedly choked. Lifting the slabs in the basement paving, he discovered that the pipe was completely encircled by poplar roots. They belonged to a tree that grew some thirty yards away on the opposite side of the house.

Thus the roots had moved steadily toward the house and had penetrated below the foundation and across the basement wall till they reached their goal, the waste pipe, 150 feet away. Then they had pierced a cement joining and had worked their way in long, tapering lengths inside the pipe for a considerable distance beyond the house.

There seems something almost human in such unerring instinct and perseverance in surmounting obstacles.

And Yet They Say Authors Are Poor.

Authors may not now spurn the offer of money for their work, but they really do sometimes fail to cash checks, according to the cashier of the Century company. "I don't know what they do with the checks," he said in complaint to a friend the other day, "unless they frame them. Though acknowledgments have proved the receipt of the checks, I am always carrying on the books corresponding accounts that I can't close up for months, sometimes years. I remember especially one check issued to a famous actor and author. He died a number of years ago. The check was made out anew to the estate. Still it is uncashed. There is more than one author I'd like if he—it is now dead—would only go and get his money."

Ready For the Worst.

"A woman in a parish where I lived," said an English clergyman, "used each day to prepare herself for the worst. I was complimenting her one day on the extreme tidiness of the house even early in the morning.

"'Yes,' she said; 'I always likes to 'ave my bedrooms done hearly, for, as I allus say, you never knows what may 'appen, 'ow soon one of the children may be brought 'ome in a fit or with a broken leg, and, as I allus say, it don't matter what 'appens, so long as you've got a bedroom to put 'em into.'"

Chivalry.

"Do you know," said the particularly well groomed and elaborately vivacious lady in the full bloom of her second youth, "that I have the most wonderful gardener in the world—the tenderest hearted not only of gardeners, but of men? He has always made me up a very special bouquet on my birthday and presented it to me in person. But ever since I was thirty—well, he's only given me a birthday bouquet every third year."

Heroes and Villains.

Men are not made heroes by the performance of an act of heroism, but must be born before they can perform it; so they were not made villains by the commission of a crime, but were villains before they committed it.

WAKING DREAMS.

A Long Series of Events Can Be Crowded Into a Few Seconds.

It is more than likely that the great majority of dreams belong to the few moments when we are falling off to sleep and the equally brief time we take to wake up. In fact, nothing is more fully established than the fact that an apparently long dream can unfold itself in an infinitesimal space of time.

Alfred Maury relates how he had a long and vivid dream of the reign of terror in France, which included his trial before the revolutionary tribunal and his execution. He actually felt the guillotine fall. Yet that dream from beginning to end was actually caused by the fall of a curtain rod which struck him on the neck and woke him up. The whole lengthy dream lasted really a couple of seconds.

A well known writer in London was sitting up late writing something he much wished to finish. Suddenly some one came into the room and announced that he was called to go to Manchester. He went out and packed his bag and went to that city, where he stayed several days and saw innumerable people. He returned in due course and transacted a lot of business in town and actually contracted for and started a new book.

Yet when he woke with a start and found it was all a dream the ink of the last word he had written was as fresh and needed the blotting paper as much as if it had only just been written. He could not have dozed longer than ten seconds.

In a Maori Wooing House.

Among the Maoris sometimes in the whare matoro (the wooing house), a building in which the young of both sexes assembled for play, sogs, dances, etc., there would be at stated times a meeting. When the fires burned low a girl would stand up in the dark and say: "I love So-and-so. I want him for my husband." If he coughed (sign of assent) or said "Yes" it was well; if only dead silence she covered her head with her robe and was ashamed. This was not often, as she generally had managed to ascertain, either by her own inquiry or by sending a girl friend, if the proposal was acceptable. On the other hand, sometimes a mother would attend and say, "I want So-and-so for my son." If not acceptable there was generally mocking, and she was told to let the young people have their house (the wooing houses) to themselves.

If one be troubled with corns, he will find in Holloway's Corn Remover an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

DUST CLOUDS OF ALASKA.

Volcano Ashes Make the Hills Appear to Be Snow Clad.

As we approached Kodiak strange dark clouds were seen obscuring the horizon at several points, one of which was so heavy and black that it resembled smoke from a great forest fire. Captain Jensen startled us by explaining that this was dust blown by the stiff breezes from the lofty hills all about us. These hills seemed covered with snow, but the ashfall deposit proved to be ashes raised down several feet deep upon all this section during the erupting of Mount Katmai in June, 1912. Katmai is still smoking.

The sun looked like a dull silver dollar as it shone through the ashy mist. The dust cloud was so thick that it held our steamer up for four hours until the way was clear. Passing your hand over the rail of the boat, you found your fingers streaked with the inexplicable gray powder. When we landed at Kodiak we found piles of soft gray ashes and large and small pieces of light, friable stone, like pumice stone, which had been thrown out by the volcano. The explosion of the volcano was heard at Valdez, 400 miles away from Kodiak, and sounded like a reverberating. It was followed by a deposit of fine ashes in Valdez.

In Kodiak the ashes covered everything. They half buried Colonel Bisgett's big cannery on the dock and put him temporarily out of business. They completely filled up a pond four feet deep which had been the skating resort for many years of the children of Kodiak.

CORE OF THE EARTH.

Its Form a Mystery, but the Globe, as a Whole, Is as Rigid as Steel.

The theory that the crust of the earth is only a few miles in thickness and rests upon an intensely heated molten interior is no longer tenable. It is now known that the earth, as a whole, possesses a high degree of effective rigidity, as great as if it were composed throughout of steel. It is no doubt true that the interior of the earth is in an intensely heated condition and that it appears to possess some of the qualities of a fluid. At the same time it behaves in many respects as a solid.

Professor Milne concludes from the velocities of seismic waves at different depths that the materials and general chambers of the crust of the earth that are found at the surface may extend to a depth of about thirty miles, but beyond that the interior seems to merge into a fairly homogeneous nucleus. This state probably extends to a depth of six-tenths of the radius, but the remaining four-tenths form a core which differs in its physical and possibly its chemical constitution from the outer portion. What the state of this nucleus is must be a matter largely of conjecture until we have a fuller knowledge of the state of matter when subjected to the vast pressure such as exists within the earth's interior.

Additional evidence that the earth, as a whole, is at least as rigid as steel is furnished by a study of tidal phenomena and also by the variation of latitude.

Squaring the Circle.

The origin of the problem squaring the circle is almost lost in the mists of antiquity, but there is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews. There is also a claim, according to Hone, that the problem was solved by a discovery of Hippocrates, the geometrician of Chios—not the physician—500 B. C. Now, the efforts of Hippocrates were devoted toward converting a circle into a crescent, because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radiuses in a circle is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of junction. This is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates" and is, like glauber salt out of the philosopher's stone, an example of the useful results which sometimes follow a search for the unattainable.

Probably Futurist Music.

He was a "reformed" old fashioned country newspaper editor that had found farming a better paid industry than editing, and he was discussing crops with a company of fellow farmers at the village grocery.

"Well, Lem, I s'pose you're a reg'lar farmer now; been at it for ten years," remarked one of the friends.

"Oh, I'm a farmer all right," said Lem, "and I s'pose I'll always be one, but I tell you the smell o' printer's ink is still music to my ears."

Why He Was Sure to Advance.

Clarence presented himself before the father of the girl whom he hoped to marry and declared his matrimonial intentions.

"I have no serious objections," said the father, "but is there any chance of promotion for you or an increase in your salary?"

"Is there?" exclaimed Clarence eagerly. "I don't see how I can help it. Why, my position is next to the lowest one in the whole establishment!"

Muscular Rheumatism Subdued.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

He Got Them Mixed.

A Missouri farmer had ordered a fancy pig from a breeder. The pig was a mere mite of a pig, and the farmer sent it back.

"Dear sir," he wrote. "From the comparative size of the pig and the bill I am forced to the conclusion that you got them mixed. You should have sent the pig by mail and the bill by express.

Impudence.

The only cure for impudence is the suffering which impudence entails. Nothing but bringing him face to face with stern necessity and letting him feel how unbending, how unpitying it is can improve the man of ill governed desires.

WORKING GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Read How She Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Arnprior, Ontario.—"I must write and tell you my experience with your medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so run-down that I used to take weak spells and would be at home at least one day each week. I was treated by the doctors for anemia, but it didn't seem to do me any good. I was told to take a rest, but was unable to, and kept on getting worse. I was troubled mostly with my periods. I would sometimes pass three months, and when it came it would last around two weeks, and I would have such pains at times in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age and weigh 118 pounds now, and before taking the Vegetable Compound I was only 106 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle of it I felt a change. My mother has been taking it for a different ailment and has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the medicine and to answer letters asking about it."—Miss HAZEL BERNDT, Box 700, Arnprior, Ontario.

A day or each week shown in the pay envelope. If you are troubled with some weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, pains and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear boy, Sydney Samuel Wakelin, who died June 30th, 1920.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Sydney,
That we do not think of you.
When the evening shades are falling,
And we are sitting all alone,
To our hearts there comes a longing,
If dear Sydney only could come home.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To a grave not far away,
Where we laid our darling Sydney
Just five years ago to-day.

—Father, Mother and Brother.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear daughter, Mrs. Russell Holland (Aleta), who went to sleep July 11th, 1922.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance
From our memories sacred and true,
Just a token of affection
And a longing still for you.
Oh could we see your smiling face,
And hear the voice we loved so dear,
Could we feel the touch of the loving hand,
It would fill our lonely lives with cheer.
The silent grief that's in our hearts
No human eye can trace;
For many a broken heart lies hid
Beneath a smiling face.
Angels guard her, watch her slumber,
While our hearts in silence weep;
Fold your enowy pinions closely
O'er our darling Aleta fast asleep.
Dearly loved and sadly missed by Mother, Father and Brothers. 28ap

The Newman Raspberry.

The Newman raspberry has done well at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, being one of the most promising of the newest varieties. It was named after its originator, Mr. C. P. Newman, and is a selection from many seedlings grown and tested. The original seed was taken from a field containing the varieties Cuthbert, Eaton, Herbert, King, and London. The seed was planted in 1908 and the following year 200 plants were set out for study. Two years later it was possible to make a selection from the best of these. It was then that Seedling Newman No. 32 was recognized to possess superior merit. In 1916 and 1917 this variety was submitted for further trial to the Experimental Farms where it ranks among the best varieties.

Parasites All.

When the dog flea finds the dog, it is happy, so much so that it becomes very active and fleas become numerous. The flea found its host. And so it is with plants, they all have their bacteria. Generations of living together have developed kinds and types, with their likes and dislikes. Each particular plant has its associated bacteria which becomes active when they come in contact with the root. We have long known the close association between the roots of the clover plant and certain bacteria, to the general advantage of both. This discovery was made largely through the bacteria carrying on the work in a way that left large visible nodules on the clover root. It has long been suspected that plants belonging to other orders had associated with them bacteria that carried on a work similar to the clover or legume bacteria. And it has now been demonstrated that the corn plant has associated with it bacteria that do for the corn roots what the legume bacteria do for the legume. It has been a mystery to many agriculturists how the corn belt land could go on growing corn year after year and still have an adequate supply of available nitrogen for the next crop. The secret is now out, the corn plant has its parasite, a nitrogen gathering bacteria that multiplies in the presence of the corn root, just as the flea will thrive only when it finds a suitable host. It is to be hoped that nitrogen gathering will be found for all agricultural plants.—Department of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Worms Among Raspberries.

If you see any evidence of the arrival of worms among your raspberries use a pound of dry lead arsenate in a barrel of water and cover the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves. That is, use lead arsenate up to the time the fruit sets. After the fruit has use white hellebore.

Nursery, all colors, at Wallace's. The White also sold in bulk.

OBITUARY

John Richmond.

Mr. John Richmond, who died in the Kingston General Hospital on June 16th, was buried at Tamworth on the 18th. The funeral service was conducted in the United Church by Rev. Mr. Clarke, who took for his text: "Concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others who have no hope"; I. Thes., chap. 4, part of verse 13.

Mr. Richmond was born in the Township of Richmond in December, 1873, and lived in that township all his life until the time of his illness, about fifteen months ago, when he moved to Tamworth. He steadily grew worse and was taken to the hospital, where he passed away two weeks later.

Besides his wife and son, Harold, 12 years of age, Mr. Richmond leaves his mother, Mrs. Thos. Richmond, Forest Mills; two sisters, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Dewett, also of Forest Mills; three brothers, Nelson, of Sharp's Corners, and Daniel and James, Roblin.

Mrs. William R. Butland.

The death occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Bristow, Welland, Ont., on Sunday, July 5th, 1925, of Mrs. William R. Butland, for many years a resident of Napanee. Deceased had been in comparatively good health until a few days ago, when she suffered a stroke, which caused her death, at the advanced age of 84 years.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Jane Thompson, was born in Cumberland County, England, and together with her husband and family she came to this country in 1873, locating in Napanee, where she lived until about eight years ago, when she went to Welland to live with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Bristow.

Three daughters are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, Mrs. W. S. Milne, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. F. H. Stevens and Mrs. W. F. Bristow, both of Welland, Ont. One sister, Mrs. George Avis, of Eastbourne, England, also survives.

The remains were brought to Napanee on Wednesday, interment taking place in the family plot in Riverview cemetery, beside her husband and two children, Fred and Annie.

The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their irreparable loss.

Edgerton Ryerson Sills.

On Sunday morning, July 5th, at his home, near Conway, in the Township of South Fredericksburgh, suddenly there passed away one of the best known and highly respected residents of the Township, in the person of Edgerton Ryerson Sills. The deceased was born in May, 1861, and was a lifelong resident of the township in which he died. In religion he was an Anglican, and was buried on Tuesday, July 7th, in St. Paul's Church cemetery, Sandhurst. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Henrietta May Claringbold, and his brothers, Frederick W. Sills, of Bath, Ont.; Dr. N. J. Sills, of Calgary, and Percival Sills, of Sillsville, Ont.; and his sisters, Mrs. Jas. Stratton, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. John Allen, of Cobalt. One sister, Mrs. Byron Robinson, of Toronto, predeceased him.

Mrs. Homer Miles.

Julia Maria Hawley, widow of the late Homer Miles, and a well known resident of Richmond Township, passed away on Thursday, at her home on the Newburgh Road. Mrs. Miles had been in poor health for a considerable time, and her death was not unexpected. Deceased had a host of friends throughout the district, particularly among the young people who were always welcome to her home for social gatherings. Her husband predeceased her a number of years ago. Three sons and two daughters remain to mourn the loss of a loving mother. The funeral took place from her late residence on Sunday afternoon.

His Master Stroke.

"George Ferguson," said his wife, looking with crushing scorn at the gaudy rug he had bought at a special sale, "I wonder if ever in your life you knew a bargain when you saw it!"

The case was critical. Mr. Ferguson saw that something bold and decisive must be done, and his mind worked quickly.

"Why, yes, Laura," he said. "When I wanted a wife I picked out the nicest, sweetest little woman in the whole world, and I got the best bargain any man ever got. There, there, pet!"

A Mystery.

What matter is no one can tell. The scientists have been trying to find out for centuries, and without success. We have given names to the various parts and forms of stuff called matter, but the "thing in itself" is a mystery. The late John Stuart Mill defined matter as "the permanent possibility of sensation."

How It Was Done.

Uncle was visiting the family, and the children had promised faithfully that they would not ask him to take them to the "movies."

The second day of his visit, however, and sleep in the graveyard—said it was "better than sleeping outdoors, anyway." Judge Sawyer once built a new tomb, and Sam took the first night after it was done to sleep in it. Meeting the owner the next day, he called out: "Hello, Judge! I laid in your tomb before you did!"

Candid.

Edith—You must speak to papa first. Surely you don't expect him to make the advances, do you? Jack—Well, if he doesn't I don't see how we are going to get married.

STABLE VENTILATION

FRESH AIR IS MORE ESSENTIAL TO LIFE THAN FEED.

Two Systems of Ventilation: The King and the Rutherford — Too Much Air Space a Mistake—The Control of Potato Insects.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The question of stable ventilation comes up every year when new stables are being erected. It seems quite important then; provision may or may not be made to give the animals the required pure air. Many neglect it entirely, saying, "What's the use, the cold air will find a way in." Sometimes it does, and sometimes it does not, and animals may be compelled to live in an atmosphere that is destructive.

Fresh air is the cheapest thing we have. Yes, so cheap that it is not appreciated by many people keeping live stock. Yet these same people will pay out good money for service and drugs to correct conditions that fresh air would have prevented.

Two Systems of Ventilation.

We have two recognized systems of stable ventilation, the King and the Rutherford. In the Rutherford system fresh air inlets are placed at floor and foul air outlets are placed at ceiling. In the King system the inlets are at the ceiling and the outlets one foot above floor level. In the Ontario climate there is very little difference in the results given by these systems. Both work well when properly operated, and like everything else in stable equipment must have attention from the man in charge of the stable. Beef cattle, sheep and horses live and thrive best in a stable where the temperature is kept below 50°. Dairy cattle and swine require a temperature 50° to 60° with a humidity of 75 degrees or less. If the humidity runs over 75 degrees, the walls and ceiling will drip with moisture or coat with frost. A condition not to be desired.

Too Much Air Space a Mistake.

A common mistake made is too much air space per animal. The warming of the stable is dependent upon the heat radiated from the animal body. In modern stables and under winter conditions it has been found that 700 or 800 cubic feet of air space is all the stable needs that a 1,000-pound animal should be expected to warm up. Wide passage ways and high ceilings while very desirable features for nine months of the year, present a problem in ventilation during the three cold winter months. Its only solution is artificial heat. With proper window and door arrangement and careful attention on the part of the stable man the air can be kept reasonably dry and pure for only part of the year. Add a ventilating system and you can meet the cheering atmospheric conditions from hour to hour with little labor and much satisfaction, shown in the thrift of the stock. If you are remodelling the old stable or building a new one, give ventilation full consideration, but in a system, put in lots of glass, hinge the windows to open inward from the top, and don't forget the Dutch doors.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

When customers go to the country

many grocers and butchers continue to supply them by calling up out-of-town prospects in a circle of 30, 40, or 50 miles on an appointed day and hour, and getting their orders.

Grocers say they can well afford to do so on weekly orders. Deliveries are made by truck or express.

Visitors renting cottages at nearby points readily respond to offers to supply them, and this is usually profitable business.

We would be glad to help you work out a plan for reaching this trade.

CORN FIELD MOISTURE

MAY BE PRESERVED DURING THE DRY SEASON.

Cultivation or Intertillage the Thing —How Moisture Evaporates—Cultivate Frequently But Not Deeply —Parasites Aff.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Cultivating, or intertillage, is so generally practiced with corn growing that we assume it is necessary for growth and do not stop to ask the reason. But there are several reasons, the most important of which are to conserve moisture and to destroy the competing weeds that the corn may have the best possible chance to develop.

Intertillage Beneficial.

Intertillage also assists the freeing of plant food and an open or loose surface soil will, in case of heavy rain, take up and hold more moisture than a hard or uncultivated surface. As fast as moisture evaporates from the surface more water moves up from below. This is as nature intended it should be, and was quite the right thing when the soil surface is covered with decaying leaves and growing vegetation. But under our crop growing systems of to-day where we reduce the soil to an absolutely bare condition, and then plant corn with the object of growing corn and nothing else on the land, we must save the moisture, prevent its escape from the soil until the corn plant develops a root system extensive enough that no moisture may pass from the soil surface. We know that moisture is lost from the fallow field if there is no cultivation during the warm dry weather, and we know that tillage practiced on the bare fallow field will retain the soil in a mellow condition.

How Moisture Evaporates.

If we set a pan of water on the unprotected surface soil it will loose one-half inch of water daily during the dry weather. A similar pan of water set in the corn field or wheat field where it is protected by the growing crop will not lose as much in a week. From the foregoing it will be noted that the most important tillage to save the moisture for the corn plant is done previous to the time that the plant has attained a height of 12 or 15 inches. When the corn is that high it has developed a root system large enough to prevent loss of soil moisture. Tillage done after the corn is 15 inches high has its main benefit in removing the weeds that compete with the corn for moisture and nourishment. All taken by weeds directly robs the corn crop. In experiments that were conducted to determine the influence of weeds on corn yield it was found that shallow cultivation gave an increase of 43 bushels of corn per acre over where weeds were allowed to grow.

Deep Cultivation Not Necessary.

There is no real necessity of cultivating deep, unless it is to cover large weeds. If the work is done in proper time the weeds will not get large and shallow tillage will take care of them, and at the same time the corn roots will not be injured by the cultivator teeth. Broad cutting cultivator teeth that do not loosen the soil more than two inches deep give conditions most favorable to the full development of the corn plant. The type of cultivating usually spoken of as "Rip-her up deep," "Let her down deep," increases the labor and reduces the yield.

Frequent Cultivations a Benefit.

Up to the time that the corn shades the ground cultivate frequently, and not over two inches deep; after that, continue to cultivate shallow principally with the object of destroying weeds.—Department of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

MINERALS FOR STOCK

ARE NECESSARY FOR THE WELL BEING OF THE BODY.

Recognition of Mineral Deficiencies —Method of Supplementary Feeding — Burning by Paris Green Spray.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In the construction of the animal body some ten principal minerals are used. This seems a lot, and when we look at a cow or a pig, nothing of a metallic nature is in view unless it is the ring in the pig's nose. Minerals are reduced to forms that the layman cannot readily recognize, by various processes before they are used in body building. When we see a roast of beef on the butcher's block we do not think of it in terms of hydrogen, oxygen, calcium, phosphorus, iron, etc., unless we have a knowledge of chemistry. To the majority it is just beef and that is as far back as their thoughts go. But to the man on the land who makes his living producing food animals it is something more. He has had experience some time during his feeding operations, with animals that lacked thrift, did not develop properly, bones weak, small, crooked, and joints malformed.

The experienced feeder knows that salt is essential to the well-being of his animals, so he provides it. In doing so two of the necessary minerals, sodium and chlorine, find their way to the structural units of the body. The experienced feeder knows that blue grass grown on limestone lands in different from other blue grass, in that it provides something that aids very materially in building a strong bony structure for the young animal.

Recognition of Mineral Deficiencies.

1. Iodine.—Big neck or goitre in new-born calves, lambs, foals and dead hairless pigs indicate that this mineral element was not present in quantity sufficient for normal development.

2. Calcium and Phosphorous.—Rickets in young animals, paralytic condition of the joints of either fore or hind limbs, weak legs, and soft-shelled eggs in chickens, and low milk production are common conditions where these minerals are not supplied in sufficient quantity.

Feeds Rich in Calcium (the bone maker)—Alfalfa, Red Clover, Tankage, Dried Milk products, Skimmilk, Buttermilk, Whey.

Feeds Poor in Calcium.—Cereal grains, roots, Timothy hay, cereal straws.

Feeds With Calcium in Moderate Amount.—Dried beet pulp, corn silage, corn fodder.

(a) Calcium can be supplied by feeding steamed bonemeal, raw rock phosphate, whiting, chalk, air-slacked lime, limestone, marl, or wood ashes, in quantity sufficient to balance the seed along with the daily ration.

(b) Phosphorous can be supplied best by using phosphorous rich food as bran, linseed meal and tankage, or by using raw rock phosphate finely in conjunction with calcium. Steamed bone meal can also be used.

(c) Iodine can be supplied by using sea salt from which the iodine has not been removed or by using the commercial iodized salt.

Method of Feeding Supplements.

The quantities required are not large. For animals at pasture a self feeder is the only practical method. For stall-fed animals the ingredients can be mixed and given with the daily ration, where calcium and phosphorous alone are required such can be supplied by mixing steamed bone meal, marl and salt. If iodine alone is required a solution made of one ounce of iodine to one gallon of water can be made up and one tablespoonful applied daily to the feed of each animal.

If the milk yields are low, and the cows chewing bones, look to the mineral content of the feed and make adjustments. If the pigs are crippled, with swollen joints and defective bones, look to the mineral content of the feed. If the hens are laying soft-shelled eggs, look to the mineral content of the food.

You are the one that supplies the feed. The cow shut up in the barn yard and the pig in the high-walled pen are your prisoners; it is up to you to provide what their bodies need, or let them go out to nature and find it for themselves.—L. Stevens, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

To Keep Pests From Small Fruits.

No good excuse can be given by anyone as a reason for losing a crop of currants by cane-borer, because of mildew or worms. Limesulphur at summer strength as for apples or Bordeaux applied when the leaves first appear and at intervals of two weeks thereafter until the fruit is half grown will control mildew. Add two pounds of dry lead arsenate to 100 gallons of spray and you can control the currant worms at the same time. If plant lice or aphids show up give them a dose of nicotine sulphate at the usual strength on the first appearance of the pests. If worms appear after the fruit is half grown use fresh white hellebore instead of lead arsenate.

Burning by Paris Green Spray.

Each year considerable injury results to tender plants through leaf scorching following the application of Paris Green.

This injury can be avoided by using a double quantity of freshly-slaked or hydrated lime in a mixture with the Paris Green and then adding sufficient water to make a paste. Allow this to stand for an hour and then dilute to the strength desired for spraying. The lime combines with the free arsenious oxide and removes its leaf scorching property.

"That young woman with all those jewels carved out her own fortune."

"Nonsense. She's an ex-chorus girl. She didn't carve out her own fortune. She married a millionaire."

"Yes, but think how many other chorus girls she had to cut out to marry him."

Rinses out thoroughly — leaves clothes white — no bits of soap left sticking to garments to turn yellow under the iron.

Rinso is the only soap you need on wash-day — it is perfect for soaking — for boiling — for washing-machines.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It is easier to begin at the bottom than to keep from ending there.

Protect the child from the ravages of worms by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It is a standard remedy, and years of use have enhanced its reputation.

Patient—Good morning! I called to see if the doctor couldn't give me something for my tonsils.

New Maid—I'm sorry, sir, but the doctor never buys tonsils—he receives them."

Wrote an elderly spinster from Denbigh to her sister who lives up in Tenbigh.

"I have lived by myself,
Till I'm now on the shelf,
So tell me, pray where can the men-bigh?"

Dread of Asthma makes countless thousands miserable. Night after night the attacks return and even when brief respite is given the mind is still in torment from continual anticipation. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy changes all this. Relief comes, and at once, while future attacks are warded off, leaving the afflicted one in a state of peace and happiness he once believed he could never enjoy. Inexpensive and sold almost everywhere.

A Scot, applied for a position as patrolman on the London police force. Here is a question they put to him in Scotland Yard and his answer:

"Suppose, MacFarlane, you saw a crowd congregated at a certain point on your beat, how would you disperse it, quickly, and with the least trouble?"

"I would pass the hat."

Sandy went to have a tooth drawn, and when he arrived in the chamber of torture he began fumbling amongst the change in his pocket.

"It's all right," said the agony purveyor cheerfully, "there's no necessity to pay until the operation is over."

"Ah wasna goin' tae pay," explained the victim sourly, "I only wanted to find out how much I had before you gave me the gas."

One of the most effective vermifuges on the market is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

Mrs. De Trop (who is shortsighted)—"Good morning, Mrs. Simkins. Your husband must be very fond of gardening. I see him first thing every morning, down in the bottom of the garden. And how well he looks, to be sure!"

Mrs. Simpkin turned her back and slammed the door in her neighbor's face. The latter, aghast, went to tell her daughter.

"And you told her, mother, that the thing in the onion bed was her husband!"

"Of course I did."

"Well, that's a scarecrow!"

Ontario's Highways are a welcoming challenge to you

Somewhere a vagrant breeze rustles through orchards and grain fields—somewhere nestling lakes are rippling in fraicheur—somewhere there is happy health and freedom—and you can find them all in a motor trip in Ontario.

There is a good road to follow. You don't need to stay on the provincial highways. The county roads in most parts of the Province are in fine condition and lead to beauty spots you do not know.

Take a few days off in your car. Take the family with you. In every direction you will see wonderful scenery —rivers and lakes—hills and valleys—beautiful farm country and beautiful towns.

Ontario's highways are a welcoming challenge to you and other motorists. Use them, but use them sanely.

See the country as you go. Drive moderately. You cannot make any speed records, although you may break speed limits. Your fast driving tears up the road surface which you and other users of the roads must replace. There is no magic about road repair work. It costs hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, and the money comes out of your pocket and those of your neighbours. In your own interest you should be careful about needlessly doing damage.

The Government is certain of the co-operation of most users of the roads by driving at moderate speeds as provided by the law. Those who omit to comply with the law and this request, should understand that the enforcement of the law will not be relaxed in any respect.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, the Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public bodies in Ontario, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

DR. H. I. JONES AT CHAUTAUQUA

Prominent Scientist to Speak on Vital Topic.

"Science and the Future" Subject of Great Lecture of Universal Interest.

"Science and the Future," an absorbingly interesting and popular lecture-demonstration exemplifying the progress of commerce when aided by science, will be presented at the coming Dominion Chautauqua by Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, noted scientist and author. Doctor Jones, in his lecture, commands the interest and attention of everyone, the housewife as well as the business man.

He has won distinction among leading men of science everywhere. Many articles written by him have appeared in important scientific publications throughout the world. But unlike many learned scientists, Doctor Jones has the ability to present complex scientific subjects in an interesting and entertaining manner.

QUICK WITTED WOMEN.

Their Clever Ruse That Won the Favor of Emperor Konrad.

There are countless stories to illustrate the devotion of women, but the most interesting of them is the one that is recorded in the annals of a home for dependent women at Weinsberg, on the Neckar, in the vicinity of Heidelberg.

At the foot of the mountain was fought one of the fiercest battles of the long struggle between the Guelphs and the Ghibellines. When the conflict was ended and the Ghibelline leader, Emperor Konrad, had driven the Guelph chieftains up the mountain to their stronghold, he laid siege to the ancient castle. After several days he sent word that if the men would surrender he would permit the women to depart in safety, carrying their treasures with them. The terms of surrender were arranged, and the emperor drew up his army to form an escort for the noble ladies with their jewels and other dear possessions.

When the procession of women came down the hill the hostile army saw, to its amazement, that every gentlewoman carried a man on her back. The men they carried were the Guelph officers, who were to have remained in the castle and been made prisoners of war. Konrad was so touched by this expression of devotion on the part of those wives and mothers that he permitted the women to go back for their jewels. In 1820 Queen Charlotte of Wurttemberg, daughter of George III. and a member of the Guelphs, built the asylum on the hill as a memorial to those quick witted Guelph women.

A Plank's Inside and Outside.

There is an inside, also an outside, to every plank or board, the outside being the side farthest removed from the "pith," or center, of the tree from which the plank was cut. The careful workman always bears this in mind when laying boards. He leaves the outside exposed to the atmosphere the earlier layers will ultimately shell out in shreds and strips owing to the action of the air destroying the timber's cohesive properties. As a result the even surface will be destroyed, a serious defect in better class work.—London Answers.

A Story of Robespierre.

The story is told of Robespierre that at one time when at the height of his power a lady called upon him, beseeching him to spare her husband's life. He scornfully refused. As she turned away she happened to trend upon the paw of his pet dog. He turned upon her and asked, "Madam, have you no humanity?"

As a great treat MacDonald took his wife and three of a family to the theatre. But they arrived rather late, and the gallery and pit were already full. When Mac went to the booking office the haughty young damsel therein snapped. "Nothing but five shillings seats left now." "Well," said the Scot with a shake of his head, "it's terrible expensive, but I'll take the five."

Waggish Diner (with menu) — Chicken croquettes, eh? I say, waiter, what part of the chicken is the croquette?

Waiter—The part that's left over from the day before, sir.

THE FIRST TROUSERS.

They Led to Edicts Against Their Use in Some German States.

The latest instance of a European country enacting laws concerning dress occurred at the time of the French revolution, when some rulers of German states forbade their subjects to wear trousers, these being held to indicate revolutionary opinions. The elector of Hesse-Cassel, besides prohibiting the obnoxious garments, had the convicts employed on road sweeping dressed in trousers so as to inspire disgust for sans-culotte fashions.

The term "sans-culotte" means "without breeches," and during the French revolution the "sans-culottes," who denounced every one who wore breeches, finally went beyond their opponents and wore twice as much cloth around their legs—in a word, adopted the modern trousers and made them the badge of a party.

Napoleon wore trousers on state occasions after he had been crowned emperor. His army was the first that adopted trousers, and they kept progress, step by step, with the march of the French legions. The Duke of Wellington would insist on wearing pantaloons—or trousers, as they are now called—when he attended certain social functions, although he was almost alone in so doing. This was about the year 1814, but by 1830 trousers were worn by almost everybody.

A Literary Waiter.

James Stephens, a literary Irishman, author of a number of novels, sketches and poems, is somewhat noted for his absentmindedness. In Paris he wrote his imaginative verses in the corners of cafes and never noticed which of these had been the environment of his muse. Once he left the manuscript of "The Demigods" in one of them, but could not remember where. Days afterward, wandering into the Cafe Closerie des Lilas, a waiter handed him the lost sheets. A five franc piece was offered. The waiter with much dignity refused the reward. "I am," he said, "a man of letters myself when I have an hour to spare, and I know what it is to lose the fruits of one's brains."

No Vowels in It.

Many places have curious names, but apparently there is only one place which has a name without any vowels. That place is the little hamlet of Ws, near Paris. Ws being an unpronounceable name, the inhabitants of the hamlet have transformed it into "D'Us," but this change has not been sanctioned legally, and on all the official records the name Ws still appears. The hamlet has only about a hundred inhabitants, and its sole attractions are the Chateau d'Oisy, which has been for many years in the possession of Edmond About's family, and the Chateau de Vigny, which is one of the very best specimens of the renaissance style of architecture.

Natural Protection.

It has been pointed out that to some ground animals nature's color scheme for concealment furnishes almost complete protection. The quail crouching on the ground looks like a bunch of dried leaves. Many snakes and lizards take the precise color of surrounding sand and water. A mackerel from above looks like the sea ripple, while to fish enemies beneath his white belly will not show against the higher colors of sky and water. The wonderfully beautiful changes of dolphins and chameleons were not evolved to please the eye, but to protect their lives.

President Adhered To.

"Will you marry me?"

The fair lady at the man's side drew away with a movement that seemed almost brutish. Her breath came and went in little explosive jerks. She tried to speak, but no sound came from her lips. She tried once more, and then, with sweet tremulousness, she gave her answer.

"I will marry you if you get papa's consent," she said. "I never marry without that."

Nicely Settled.

Lady—What will you charge me for the use of a horse and buggy for a few hours? Liverymun—It will cost you $2 for the first hour and $1 for each additional hour. Lady—Well, I'll not be two additional hours. I've got some shopping to do and will not require it for the first hour.

Topaz.

The word topaz comes from the Greek verb signifying to guess. The jewel was brought from the east and was reported to have come from the Red sea, and men then guessed at the location of the isle which produced such beautiful gems.

Origin of Comets.

Professor Elis Stromgren, director of the Copenhagen observatory, has carried out, with the aid of J. Brase, an investigation to determine whether comets come originally from interstellar space, as has been commonly supposed, or originate within the solar system. His method of research involves the backward computation of planetary perturbations for eight comets. The conclusion reached is that all comets heretofore observed have originated within the solar system.

An Unfortunate Accident.

"Goodness, little boy!" exclaimed the kindly old gentleman to the weeping youth; "what on earth is the matter?"

"I had a turrible accident," bawled the boy.

"Gracious! What was it?"

"I met pop when I was a-playin' hookey."

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—

In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterising wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not sear the skin or burn the flesh.

RECITAL OF SACRED MUSIC

The people of Napanee and district who are lovers of good music are under a deep debt of gratitude to Lady Twining, Miss Mary Daly and Mr. R. R. F. Harvey, of Kingston, for an exceptional recital of sacred music in St. Andrew's Church, on Friday evening last.

Lady Twining is visiting her home town, and Miss Mary Daly, who has been studying music with her for the last two years, has just returned from London. They along with Mr. Harvey, Organist of St. George's, Kingston, who presided at the organ, constituted a trio which it is not often the privilege of a town of the size of Napanee to hear.

Mr. Harvey, though somewhat indisposed, in the organ numbers showed a rare finish and beauty of expression. The numbers were chosen to show by contrast the possibilities of organ music, and the organist did this in a remarkable manner. As an accompanist, he displayed great ability in interpreting the moods of the songs, and in anticipating the feeling and expression of the singer. This was particularly noticeable and effective in the parts which were played without music.

Lady Twining has always been a favorite in Napanee, and Friday only enhanced that estimate of her. The clearness of enunciation, the trained voice, the grace and ease of expression, enabled even those who were not technically educated to appreciate most difficult music, which is perhaps the final test of a singer's ability. This was well shown in "O Redeemer Divine" and "O Rest in the Lord". The last number, "God Gave Me a Song of Trust", though not on the programme, by its very spontenieity seemed to possess an added charm, Lady Twining did two things. She took difficult music and made it intelligible to the least musically inclined; and she took simple music and made it a work of art.

Miss Mary Daly sang two songs, "Ombra Mia Fu" and "Abide With Me", the first of which was set to Handel's Largo. Napanee has always been interested in Miss Daly's singing, and went to the recital with a good deal of interest and expectation, and this was the first time she had sung since her return from London, and the audience was not disappointed. Her training was most evident in the ease with which she interpreted what are admittedly difficult songs. The first, with its foreign phraseology, would not have meant much to the majority of the audience had she not made them feel the thought and feeling of the composer in a very real and definite manner. "Abide With Me" was particularly interesting, as it showed her training in the richness and fulness of the lower notes. Napanee is justly proud of Miss Daly and will follow with the deepest interest her future career.

W. O. Stevens, of Princeton, Ill. Demonstrates Anti-Hot Box Compound

W. O. Stevens, of Princeton, Ill., son of Chas. Stevens, of this town, has superintended the re-conditioning of his father's Ford truck. The compound was percolated into the cylinder oil before putting in the engine. After the car was assembled it was run on its own power, after dragging a half mile to get it started. The action of the powder is to super-polish, and on Monday the car was examined and the cylinders, pistons, valves, timing gears, and bearings were perfectly smooth.

It is Mr. Stevens' intention to put this powder on the market in the near future. It has been patented in the United States and Canada.
